Glorious Golden Treasure of the Sea!

An Extraordinary Collection of Lovely Russian Ambers

A rare opportunity to buy beautiful Amber Necklaces, Brooches, Collars, Pendants, Rings, Bracelets, Earrings, Cufflinks!

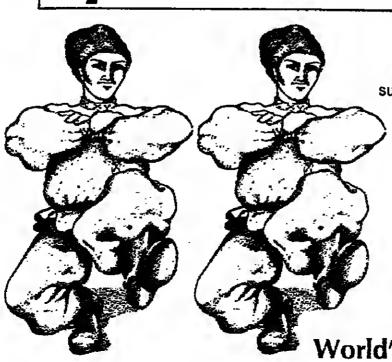

He says it's hard work, being Mineral-General of the U.S. - in addition to all the other little chores he undertakes - but, frankly, running around the world can't be all that bad. Anyway, result of J.T.'s last buying on a 10,000-mile fly-me safari has just arrived: a wonderful collection of choice Russian Amber. Some are as clear as honey, some milky beige, some with mysterious inclusions, and all are really the stuff of which helrlooms are made.

Amazing that he was able to buy so much of top quality, but the proof is right here at both our Astro Galleries. If you know anything about Amber, you'll be wide-eyed over this great collection; if Amber is new to you, you're in for a rare new treat. You'll want to hold it - and fondle it - and try it on - and walk off with a few choice pleces — for your personal embellishment, for friends for relatives - and for gifts, too.

Not possible to describe them all. However, here's a little "laundry" list of some of those J.T. says are especially pleasing. Normally, firstclass Amber brings pretty husky prices, but you know J.T. --- he bought them "right" and so he's given "instrooc-tions" that we offer them at very modest prices. (He's El Boss, so what can we do?)

- Amber Necklaces: An incredible collection from smooth polished opaque yellow ovals to delightful "jujube" shapes and baroque twiggies. Also one superb strand of faceted clear Amber Beads with gold beads, only $195.00. The collection ranges from a bargain $29.00 to $195.00. Remember, these are special prices!
- Amber Bracetets: Matched tinks in handsome translucent or opaque Amber in varied designs, specially priced,
- Amber Nugget Cottars: Charming dangling nuggets on a chain, $59.00.
- Amber Rings: A fine range of clear, translucent or opaque Amber, $18.00 to $29.00. Even if you have 50 rings, an Amber ring is a must for your collection!
- Amber Brooches: Single cabochons or in decorativa clusters, $15.00 to $29.00 At these low prices, better hurry!
- Amber Cufflinks: Dillerent and beautifully mounted, $12.00 to $25.00. Every man will be proud to wear these. Also ideal for the lady's tailored shirt.
- Amber Earrings: Dangted clusters, very pleasing in baroque or "jujube" shapes, to match the necklaces, $12.95 the pair. Utterly charming.
- Amber Pendants: Little darlings with chains, $7.95 to $25.00. Amber Pendants for Collectors: With unusual fossit inclusions, $25.00 to $100. One-ol-a-kind, naturally, and scarce. Two Exceptional Ambar Pendants: In fine old silver mountings, with chain, $75.00 each. You must see these!

Special Limited quantities of twiggy and "jujube" Amber Necklaces in three most popular lengths at incredibly low prices: 18", $29.00; 24", $39.00; 30", $49.00. Irresistible!

What Else? This is merely a sampling. Altogether a real opportunity you shouldn't miss. There's a very special treasure of Amber on display at our "Astro 57" booticky Gallery at 32 East 57th Street, and a big collection at our Main Gallery at 155 East 34th Street. Whichever gallery you visit, you'll have a treatl Amber! Imagine so much of it! You'll be delighted.

In Scotland's Outer Hebrides, the Defenders of Gaelic Still Hope to Have the Last Word

fiercely Calvinist churches of these islands, in pubs, where a beer is served with a shot of whisky, and in the homes, around fires of sweet-smelling peat, the language they speak is Gaelic.

Most of the 32,000 inhabitants of the Outer Hebrides, the Scottish mainland, also speak English, and it is just a matter of time, some people here say, before the indige-nous Scottish Gaelic will have been harassed from its last stronghold.

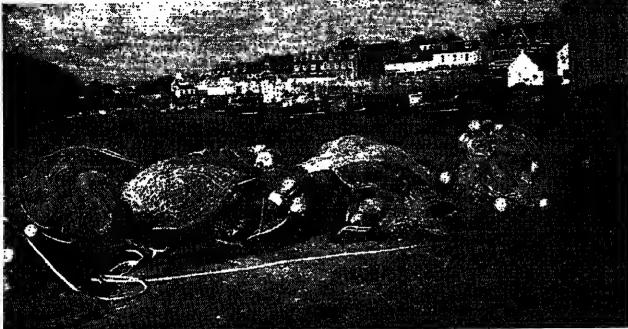

John Murray intends to stop the erosion. After 14 years in Edinburgh and Glasgow, Mr. Murray has returned to his home in the tiny farm-ing hamlet of Barvas and to nffice in Stornoway. His job is to make a language that was the first he learned as a child the working language of the schools, nnt just a taught subject, like Latin nr French.

The Dogs Say 'Amh' "We're not to be equated with butterfly cnlectors," he said. "Gaelic isn't something you do in your spare time.
It's a whole world. The sea roars in Gaelic. The hirds sing in Gaelic. The dngs bark in Gaelic." Dogs in Gaelic say "amh," which sounds like

What Mr. Murray is doing reflects an emerging phenum-enon among cultural minoriof many countries, whether Basques in Spain and France, Estonians in the Soviet Union, or American Indians, to stand up to the suppression of their customs and traditions by dominant

But the Gaels, as they call themselves, are not prime movers in Scotland's homerule dispute with Britain.
They are often boldly independent, but many view the Scottish mainland and its problems with the same suspicion that mainland Scots view England. Certainly, the Gaelic way of life here is well removed from that of the rest of the British Isles. "There's no class system, not a single 'Sir,' " said Callum John Macdonald, the local expert on the islands' best known export. Harris tweed.

Maine Congressmen Challenge Army's Choice of a Belgian Gun

By DAVID BINDER

WASHINGTON, March 29-1gun while prolonged compari-The United States Army an-soo tests were performed oo nounced today that it intended the MAG 58, made by Fabrique to buy $30 million in Belgian Nationale de Belgique, and the light machine guns for its Maremont Corporatioo's M-60 tanks.

The announcement immediately drew bitter criticism and threats from members of Congress from Maine who are conconcerned about protecting a weapons plant in their state.

According to officials in the arms manufacturing industry, however, the dispute involves not only the future of that plant, the Maremont Corporation Arsenal in Saco, Me., but the larger issue of whether the United States inteods to make arms purchases a two-way street with its partners io the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Next Move Is Belgians

The Doctober and December.

They even called on Presideot to argue the case for the Maine plant, saying it involved the future of 500 workers.

The brief Army announcement superior over all? and was more reliability and operational effectiveness.

The Maremont machine gun was described by its defenders and costing less. A General Accounting Office investigation showed that the basic Belgian guo cost $1,517, while the American gun cost $707.

In a statement issued late

The gun lovolved is the Belgian MAG 58, a 7.62 millimeter weapon, or roughly .30 catiber. The purchase is also intended to make it more desirable for Belgium to buy 102 F-16 fight-ers from the United States for more than $1 billion. That deal was authorized last July.

Secators and Representatives the public desk, main lobby, from Maine succeeded in delaying the Army decision on the Tours: 9 A.M. to 4:45 P.M.

E2, in October and December.

The Belgian arrangement is seen by the arms industry and the Department of Defense as a symbolic first step toward diversifying American purchases of weapons outside the United States. Also under discussion is the possible $4 billioo purchase of a West German tank, the Leopard II, which is in competition with an American make.

Zarb Relaxes Stand on Heavy Fuel Oil Regulations

the other change in the entitle- ty in 1975. ments regulation. It effectively reduced cost-sharing payments to the Amerada Hess Corporation, which has been driving down prices and expanding its share of the market.

Over all, Mr. Zarb asserted, the changed regulation will have no material effects oo residual fuel oil prices." This conflicted with an assessment given a few days ago by an energy official who said that the reduction in entitlements payments to Hess's Virgin Islands refinery would tend to raise prices of heavy fuel oil.

Mr. Zarb faced a political problem in taking action on the fuel issue because the con-version of price and allocation controls to standby status can be blocked by a simple major-ity in either house of Congress. Mindful of that, East Coast Senators put heavy pressure oo Mr. Zarb to give importers of heavy fuel, especially utilities and independent wholesalers some of the entitlements revenue to be taken from Hess.

New England Congressional analysts said today that the partial entitlement created for importers, about 90 cents a barrel, might lead to some price reductions or would enable wholesalers to absort higher heavy-fuel costs expect-ed in the months ahead as industrial activity expands, the change in the entitlements reg-ulation was retroactive to Feb. l and could influeoce April

Suspension of price and allo-cation regulations was pro-posed for June 1. Coogressional rejection would oot automati-cally affect the oew cost-shar-ing payments to heavy fuel importers but Mr. Zarb could retaliate by killing them.

The analysts also said that opposition to the decontrol proposal would be diminished be-cause Mr. Zarb, who met with the East Coast senators oo March 19, had compromised.

John A. Hill, deputy adminis-trator of the Federal Energy Administration, told reporter there was no "quid pro quo." That appeared to be true to Sony Betamax videocassette recorder, destined to be a superstar in your home entertainment scene: even if you're not there, it records TV programs you don't want to miss, builds a priceless videotape library in no time, $1300.

If you've ever felt you'd give a mittion to see one of those glorious oid Sid Caesar Show of Shows routines again...if you've ever longed to have the incomperable Lord Olivier tear you apart just once more with his senior Tyrone in Long Day's Journey...if you've ever ached to see or re-see any of the marvelous moments television has given us over the last 20 years, then you know the Sony Betamax could be the best home entertainment investment you ever made.

Using It is easy. You don't need a speck of electronic know-how. Just plug the Betamax into your TV set (it works with both color and black-and-white). Snap a cassette into the tape deck. Pick the chennel you want, and press "record." That's it. The Betamax records a full hour or any part of an hour. Then it's yours for good. To see on your TV set for free. Any time you want to study Connors' backhand or remind yourself that Ella and Ellington combine into a sound that's pure heaven.

It turns your living room into a private projection room. But there's more to Betamax than just record and play. Listen to this: it records at your command, whether you're there or not. Just set the Clock Watcher.

It's a digital timer that automatically turns on both your set and the Betamax system to the program you've pre-selected, then turns it oif. Your program then awaits you and your next leisure hour. (If you don't like the program, you erase it just as you erase sound lapes—by re-recording right over it.)

Think of the National Conventions coming up. Think of the great classic World Series games you can record. Think of having your very own permanent tapes of Nureyev or Streisand or Shirley MacLaine. Or (ah, bliss!) W. C. Fields. You may never want to go out to a movie again. So what in the world are you waiting for? Come check the Betamax out. It could make life a lot more fun.

Something for smokers to think about.

There are cigarettes and there are cigarettes. And if you're a smoker you certainly know by now which brand you really enjoy smoking.

So what makes us think we'll ever get a crack at switching you?

Well, we're going to try.

A lot of cigarette smokers smoke menthol. But they're probably just as concerned about the 'tar' and nicotine stories that all cigarette smokers have been hearing these days.

Frankly, if a cigarette is going to bring you flavor, it's also going to bring you smoke. And where there's smoke, there has to be 'tar.' In fact, in most cigarettes, the more flavor, the more 'tar.' Except for Vantage. You must know that Vantage cigarettes have a special filter which reduces 'tar' and nicotine without destroying flavor. What you may not know is that Vantage is also available in menthol.

Not surprisingly, what separates Vantage Menthol from ordinary menthols is that Vantage Menthol gives you all the flavor you want, with a lot less of the 'tar' and the nicotine that you probably don't want.

Now Vantage Menthol is not the lowest tar' and nicotine menthol you'll find. It may well be the lowest one you'll enjoy smoking.

Since you're the best judge of what you like about menthol cigarettes, don't just take our word for it.

Try a pack of Vantage Menthol and then you'll know for sure.

VOTE BOARD BILL CLEARED TO HOUSE

But 8-7 Rules Group Marcin and Debate Indicate Fate of Measure Is in Doubt

By WARREN WEAVER Jr.

WASHINGTON, March 29-A bill to reconstitute the Federal Election Commission barely survived a confused and contentious session of the House Rules Committee today.

The committee finally gave clearance, by an 8-to-7 vote, to a set of ground rules for House debate on the measure that would allow more than a dozen floor amendments, in-cluding a proposal for Congres-sional campaign subsidies.

It was obvious, after nearly two hours of discussion, that some committee members did not understand the bill or the proposed floor procedure and would have preferred to let the entire matter, including the

As a result, there was no confidence in any quarter as to the fate of the measure when it reaches the floor either tomorrow or Wednesday.

Times on urban iasues:

A. Well, you may recall that I was the first to speak out in behalf of New York and the Governor and the Mayor will confirm that and It's in print. I came down and helped set up the meetings with the leadership of the House and Senate. I recognized two problems; one is that there had to be changes in fiscal policy and the cost — the way in which government is being administered. Some things got out of control. What I'm talking about-pension funds. But I was the first to point out, of the politicians, that we cannot allow New York lo default because I quickly got the figures on what would happen in this country financially if there was a default on municipal bonds and economics is one of my little hobbies on the side.

And I found that there were over 500 banks in the United States that had over in municipal bonds from New York and it was obvious to me that if New York should default it could lead to a financial panic. And it was also obvious to me that New York is not only the financial center of the United States but New York is also the financial center of the free nations of the world. And that the psychological impact, let alone the direct monetary impact, would be so catastrophic coming at times when we were already mired down in a deep depression-recession—that was all we needed—which was fi-

Jimmy Carter, Representative Morris K. Udall, Fred Harris and Senator Henry M. Jackson.

A. Yes, sir, What we did was to put together a bill called the Fair Financing for Lucal Government Act 1975, and it provided for Federal municipal bond insurance, patterned after the Deposit Insurance Corporation.

More Jobs in Area

Q. Could we talk about jobs? What specific Federal programs would you propose to help this region?

A. Well, we are currently speoding, Federal and state, on direct costs $75 billion to support people who are out of work. That's state and Federal—$75 billion. It's obvious thet we have to break this cycle because the heavy debt that we're incurring is feeding inflation. It's printing press money. . . . to support these people. Therefore, there are two basic moves that I would make, I would move on a public works program willi initial investment of about $20 billion, which would cmbrace many areas, but specifically schools, hospitals, wa-ter quality treatment plants. We're $60 billion behind building the sewage disposal plants that we need. Rebulld-ing the railroad beds is another must, i'd have the reaeral Government take over the ownership of the railroad beds and rebuild those railroad heds and lease them back. Now, that's the only sensible thing to do because we've been fooling around with such cases as Penn Cen-tral and they don't meet their obligations and we're kidding

Cotton Sheets: A New Interest

By STEVEN RATINER

When it comes to sheets, cotton may never be King again, but a restoration of sorts is going on in the

There, cotton sheets-cool, crisp and comfortable-are making a comeback after having been given up as a lost cause by all but the most ardent royalists of rest.
Although they are expensive and lack the no-iron convenience of synthetics, cotton sheets-according to their champions-are not uncomfortably clammy, are not rough and are not like sleeping in plastic.

"We've found in the last couple of years a definite buildup of interest in cotton," said Lewis G. Singer, senior vice president of Warnsutta, a sheet-manufacturing division of M. Lowenstein and Sons Inc., which did not throw in the towel despite the popularity of dacron and polyester. "It's part of the trend to more natural things." In response to consumer clamor for cotton, Wamsutta—as recently as a year ago the sole manufacturer—is finding company, and is responding to the clamor and the challenge by updating its whites and quaint flowers with stylish designs by Hermes.

J. P. Steveos & Company gave up the all-cotton business years ago only to pick it up again last year.

Its first new creation, an Yves St. Laurent geometric pattern, made its debut at Bloomingdale's only recently; and there are other styles to come.
"We've felt there was a demand for an all-cotton sheet and the response has been quite good," said Mal

Shults, a J. P. Stevens division president. But beause they wrinkle, he said, "they're always going to be for the woman who has help or sends her things out."

Saks Fifth Avnue says the designer sheets by Hermes it introduced in January "went very well." In July, sheets designed by Norell and Billy Baldwin will make their appearance. To some extent, the resistance against synthetic sheets parallels a similar reaction against other polyester items.

Men's cotton shirts, for example, while never threatened in the higher-price models, have made a strong comeback in the ingre-pitce modes, have made a strong comeback in the more modest price range.

But with the price of cotton high and poised to go higher, all-cotton sheets come dear. At Saks Fifth Avenue, for example, Wamsutta's new rope pattern on a beige background by Kermes costs $13.50 for a flat or fitted twin-

In fact, the manufacturers have aimed their new sheets particularly at the well-heeled. For one thing, the cotton sheets are 200-thread weaves, as compared to 180-threads in the no-iron fabrics. As a result, Mr. Singer predicts that the all-cotton sheets will account for only about 2 percent of the $800million sheet industry a year.

"For these sheets to really come back," said Richard Williams, a vice president at West Point-Pepperell Inc.,

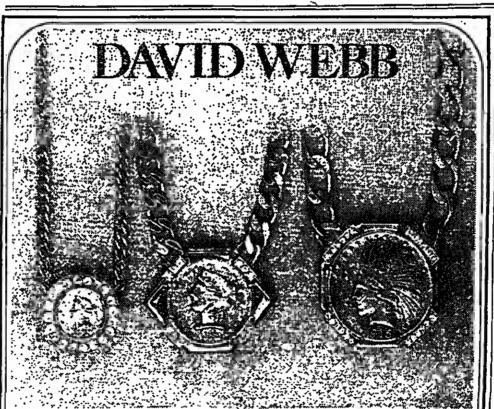

"It would require the retraining of the whole younger group. Young people aren't used to ironing things; who's going to iron them?"

Ann Sims, for example, who wore an American flag pin on her polka-dotted dress and a look of utter calm, was only in the market for music, particularly "Ricentennial music."

As program chairman of the auxiliary of the Staten Island Museum, Mrs. Sims had to come up with something smashing for the president's tea on May 12, and she did.

"I saw a soprano who will be ideal," she said with a small smile.

Music never fails, according to Mrs. Black. Over the years she has seen few changes in the kind of programs that are popular in her South Grange, N.J., service.

"Ob, the subject matter has changed," she said, "because the women in these clubs are very intelligent, very refined and they want to keep up with the times."

Mrs. Black's resident world affairs lecturer, who could not attend the preview because of another engagement, currently speaks on the Middle East, she said, "because that's where the conflict is—a few years back it was Vietnam."

"You have to be up tn date," she added.

Nnt only was Mrs. Black's program up to date, it was also enlivened by a few problems only a clubwoman could appreciate. The projector broke down at one point. At another point, a heavy screen crashed to the floor.

Everyone understood. In fact, one woman said it reminded her of "our meeting at home in Connecticut."

She said, "Who's calling?" and I said, "The White House," When he are the coach of the caller remembered that one country is the said. got on, he sounded like a frog when he said hello. I said, 'John, this is Jerry Ford, 1 just wanted to call you oo yes-terday's game.' He said, 'Really,' but that's when I overplayed my band. I told him, '1 Sports just want you to know how proud you've made me and Michigan meo all over the country by getting to the final four of the N.C. Double-A tournameot.' But then there The Times was a pause and be said, 'I know who this is.'

Johnny Orr had recognized the voice of Bobby Knight,

"I had him until I overplayed my hand," Bobby Knight was saying now with a laugh. "I should bave made it quick.

Johnny Orr also laughs about it now, recalling that

Bobby Knight is a graduate of Michigan's primary sports rival, Ohio State. "How." asked the Michigan coach, "could a basketball player from Ohio State ever become the President of the United States?"

But tonight the laughter between the coaches stopped when Indiana defeated Michigan, 86-68, for the N.C.A.A. championship. Bobby Knight emerged at age 35 as college basketball's dominant personality, the successor to the legendary coaches whose brains he has picked-Clair Bee, Joe Lapchik, Hank Iba, John Wooden, Red Auerbach, Pete Newell and any other coach with a basketball theory that he might add to his repertory of strategy and psychology.
"There is no one correct way to play baskethall."
Bobby Knight says. "But there are a lot of ways not to

Positive Thinking Coach

Bobby Knight has often reminded his players of that. Back home in Indiana, he is known as "General Patton" and his adrenalin justifies the nickname. When a sophomore guard, Jim Wisman, repeatedly threw the ball away against a full-court press in the 72-67 overtime triumph over Michigan during the regular season, Bobby Knight angrily grabbed him by the uniform shirt. That incident, accompanied by a wire service photo, created a front page controversy in Indianapolis bot at their next practice, the Hoosiers were working against a full-court press when Bobby Knight turned to Wisman.

"Jimmy," the coach said, "if you don't learn bow to break that press, you better get a tearaway jersey."

During the 65-51 victory over the University of California, Los Angeles, in Saturday's semifinals, Tom Abernethy hobbled to the bench on an ailing knee. As the senior forward limped about, Bobby Knight was saying, "Are you ready? Are you ready?" Another coach might have said, "Sit down for a few mioutes," but Bobby Knight wasn't thinking negatively. He never does. "To ma, every game is a game against your team's own potential," Bobby Knight says. "That's the whole essence of athletics."

In the closing weeks of the regular season, Quinn Buckner, the guard who directs the Indiana offense, was

"For us to be as good as we can be," Bobby Knightsays, "Buckner bas got to be very big. But he was tired all the time. We ran him through all kinds of tests but there was nothing wrong with him. I let seniors live off campus if they want to and he just wasn't eating right. Potato chips, cokes, things like that. I told all the seniors that they bad to eat in the dorm, either that or play intramurals. Scott May rooms with Quinn and he was all right, but after they started eating in the dorm again, In asked Scott what he had the night before and he told; me, 'salad, peas . . .' and 1 said, 'All that stuff that your mother used to make you eat.' Scott was all right anyway, but we got Quinn eating and sleeping right and not foulding the was certing four fouls too early 1 finally told him." lng. He was getting four fouls too early. I finally told him. I don't want you to reach for the ball, keep your hands down. The first time you foul, you're out. He stayed away from foul trouble and he started shooting better. It meant a lot to him because it got him off the bench."

Discipline Is Vital Point

Like many coaches, Bobby Knight has a hair rule that he defends as an element of discipline,

"What the hell's wrong with looking nice," he says."
"We sign this big kid from Canton, Ohio, the other day," Mike Mitsy, with long blonde hair down to here and I had warned him that it'll bave to go but he told me, 'Coach, if, you want me to shave my bead, I'll si that kid is going to be a good player. I can already tell that he's going to be coachable."

But in his theatrics on the bench, Bobby Knight doesn't always seem to be bound by discipline.
"No, when I feel I'm oot in control of what I'm doing, I'll quit," he says. "You don't see our players complaining to officials. I do that." Indiana recruits mostly from the Middle West, occasionally from the East, but not from the southern California area that U.C.L.A. thrives on. "Some of the Indiana alumni in southern California have asked me about that," be says, 'but I told them, You've got the highest percentage income of all our alumni and the lowest percentage donations. If coming back to Indiana is such a good idea, wby don't you come back?' I doo't get bothered too much by the southern California Bobby Knight and Johnny Orr each attempted to recruit Scott May out of Sandusky. Ohio, four years ago. "I didn't know Scott May was that good then," Johnny Orr acknowledges. "I would have bought bis mother more But apparently Bobby Knight knew. And maybe General Patton even bought Scott May'a mother more flowers.

With only six days left in the National Hockey League's regular season, one would expect that the 12 teams that will be involved in the playoffs would be resting and scouting their future opponents. Despite just three or four games left however, the only certainty seems to be that Montreal, Philadelphia and Boston will receive byes in the first round. First of all, Chicago and Vancouver are 1 point apart in the battle for first in the Smythe Division, which in-cludes the fourth exemption from the two-of-three-game first round beginning next Hawks appear to have the tougher schedule, having to face Buffalo and Toronto on the road before meeting Min-nesota at home in the season nesota at home in the season finale. The Canucks also play two of three on the road, but all of their games are against last-place clubs, California twice and Kansas City.

Vancouver has one more victory than Chicago at the moment, which is the factor that would determine the winner if the teams finished tied in points.

The second most important decision, perhaps, is whether the Islanders or the Buffalo Sabres will finish with more points and lead the eight clubs that will see first-round action. Not counting their game with the Flyers last night at Nassau Coliseum, the Islanders trailed Buffalo by 4 points (96 to 100) but had a game in hand.

The aignificance of that game is not so much who will head the eight firstround teams so as to face the team with the fewest points but rather to become the fourth-ranked team in the second round and thus be assured of home-ice advantage in the four-of-seven-

The playoff system works in this manner: The eight teams playing in the first round are grouped accord-ing to their season's total points. The first team plays the bottom team, the second team faces the second from the bottom and so forth.

The four first-round win-ners and the four teams with byes, are then regrouped for the second round, with the same point method employed ers and ticket sellers cold because they cannot tell until a day or two before if or when their team will play.

There is also a big juggling act going on for the other five spots in the first round. Toronto and Pittsburgh, were tied at 50 points before they met last night, with Los Angeles just I point back. Atlanta and Chicago bad 77 and Vancouver 76. St. Louis seemed to be the only club that knew where it stood—at the bottom of the qualiat the bottom of the qualifiers' list with 69.

do was be a spoiler.
"It's a stupid feeling," said
Walt Tkaczuk, the Ranger center who has been shut out of the playoffs for the first time in his N.H.L. career. "It's craziness because I know we've got a good club. It's just that we're not together.

"You want to be in the playoffs: Here it's spring, and there'a no place to go."

Besides the teams jockeying for position, the race for ing for position, the race for individual scoring honors is the tightest it has been since 1967-68. Only 3 points separated the league leader, Guy Lafleur of the Canadiens with 11S points and Bobby Clarke of the Flyers with 112.

In 1968, Stan Mikita of the Black Hawks finished the season with 87 points, just season with 87 points, just 3 ahead of Phil Esposito, then with the Bruins. In seven seasons prior to this one, the point-spread between the scoring champion and the runnerup has been 19 points, 21, 13, 16, 26, 23 and 8

With six players already over 100 points this season and three more within striking distance, it is a good bet that this will also become a record-breaking year in that department. Last year there were seven.

There are also three 50goal men, and they're all right wings. Reggie Leach of the Flyers leads with 58, a total reached by only two others in N.H.L. history, Esposito and Bobby Hull. Lafleur has 52 and Jean Pronovost of Pittsburgh 51. Near-ing that mark are Pierre La-

Phil Sellers of Rutgers lunges toward Ralph Drollinger of U.C.L.A. during an attempted shot in the first half of the game at the Spectrum in Philadelphia. No foul was called.

Rutgers' Season Finally Ends —On Plaintive Note in Defeat

man. The "Punch Line" of Bobby Nystrom, Garry Howatt and Andre St. Laurent, which Coach Al Arbour had reunited on the recent West Coast trip, covered the high-power-ed line of Bohby Clarke, Bill

Barber and Reggie Leach.

With furious work, the young line tossed aside their opponents and accounted for two goals in the opening period. After Nystrom had dealt a jarring check to bar-ber along the boards, Ho-watt and St. Laurent coaxed the puck away from the Flyers, enabling St. Laurent to whip it past Wayne Step-

After a hig slapshot by Denia Potvin, Howatt scored his 21st goal by stuffing in the rebound. Each Islander shot in that period was superh. Only good work by Stephenson prevented a flood of goals.

The Flyers had no answer for New York's tremendous spirit. Hampererd by the ab-sence of Gary Dornhoefer (pneumonia) and Rick Mac-Leish (knee injury), the Flyers utilized just three lines. Although they had lost just once in their last 28 games, their phenomenal record seemed to tax rather than inspire them.

An exchange of passes between Clark Gillies and Trottier put Trottier in the clear deep of the Flyer zone and resulted in the rookie's second goal and 29th of the season. He brought the puck right up to the crease and passed Stephenson on the stick side. A clean 50-foot shot by

Barber on a Philadelphia power play clanged against

Brownsville section of Brooklyn. "I have the confidence in myself. I know what I can do. It's no disrespect. to Sandy. He's been around and he's a good player, but I feel I can do the job." Randolph, the oldest of five children of Minnie and Willie Sr., a construction worker, speaks and plays with the confidence and poise of someone with more experience. He credits his parents with helping to develop those traits, but his presence in the Pittsburgh organization also contributed. Beization also contributed. Being around the stars that populate the Pirates had to leave some impression. "Guys like Willie Stargell would come around and make you feel so good," said the youngster, who spent the final two months of last season with the Pirates. "In-stead of the guys ignoring you, they were really warm. Just watching them and seeing the way they carried themselves taught me something.

"I'm not saying there's no pressure on me, but I don't like to put pressure on myself. The game should be fun. If you put pressure oo yourself, it's not going to be fun.

"Stargell told me never to get too high when you're going good and never get too low when you're going bad. Just stay on the same plane. There is pressure, hut if you're concentrating on what you're concentrating on what you're doing, you can put it out of your mind."

Until today, Randolph had collected only three hits in 16 times at bat, But in his last four trips to the plate, he rapped three singles. The first in the sevent incine. first, in the seventh inning, tied the game, 3-3, and the third, in the 14th, knocked in the tiehreaking run.

"We're taking a real good look at him," Manager Billy Martin said, "and he's coming along real good."

Randolph was born in Hol-ly Hill, S. C., but his family moved to Brooklyn when he was 3. At 8 he began playing under the tutelage of Galilleo Gonzalez, a Brooklyn man who formed junior haseball leagues for hlacks and Puerto Ricans in New York, He later played at Tilden High School and in American Legion hall under the uncle of Frank Tepedino, a former Yankee.

"When I was growing up," the 5-foot-11-inch, 160-pound Randolph said, "I thought my parents were too strict with me at times. But they were right. A lot of kids are weak-minded and slide the other way, but I was determined to make it. That's what I try to impress on kids when I go home—that they can do something if they want to."

LONG BEACH, Calif., March 29—By 9 o'clock this morning: traffic was going smoothly down Ocean Boulevard, where the only indications that the downtown thoroughfare was part of an euto racing circuit was the con-crete safety barrier running crete safety barrier sunning down its middle and the bleachers lining it.

By Thursday, the 2.02-mile racing circuit, where the United States Grand Prix West iwas held resterday, should be normal city streets egain and the 91,200 bleacher seats should be in storage. Long Beach was returning to normal, but it may never be the same.

"What they said couldn't be done has been done," said Monty Sharp of the city's Chamber of Commerce and executive director of the Committee of 300, a civic organization that helped make this city of 350,000 loto an auto racing capital of the stature of Indianapolis or Monte Carlo.

"More than anything, this race has done for the city what we've been trying to do for years," said Sharp. "That is to change our image from a retirement town into a vigorous, international city."

A major $68 million convention center complex is vention ceaser complex is being constructed downtown and other renewal projects are planned. "I can see in 10 years where the race will have a different skyline," said Sharp. "This race is going to help us market a city."

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 29—The Mets' unhap-py spring took another un-happy turn today as Jerry Koosman started for the New Yorkers with his father seriously ill back in St. Petersburg. Martin Koosman, the veteran left-hander's 70-year-old father, suffered his fourth heart attack in five days and was in the intensive care unit at St. Anthony's Hospital. Koosman pitched 31/3 innings for the Mets and then flew back to the Mets' train-ing hase in St. Petershurg. Koosman was the loser for the Mets, allowing only one hit, but he walked six men.

And the troubles that seem to be dogging the Mets this spring cropped up again in the first inning when the New Yorkers' Ed Kranepool

Monticello Head Busy With Plans

By AL HARVIN

MONTICELLO, N. Y. March 29-S. Harvey Fosner, the new president of Monticello Raceway, has some longrange plans for this Sullivan County track. Loog range, that is, for a 66-year-old man who retired from Race Roosevelt Raceway at the age of 6S and moved to Florida, until be got the call to return and belp run

Fosner's plans include winterizing the barns, redoing the paddock area and lengthmile size to five-eighths of

The proposals are estimated to cost from $1.5 to $2 million and take at least two years to complete. It's hardly an undertaking for anyone looking on himself as an interim president, and Fosner doesn't see himself that way.

Fosner replaces Leon Greenberg, who resigned before be was convicted of using more than $4,800 of the track's money to finance his son's bar mitzvah.

"When I retired from Roosevelt it was in my cnn-tract that I was forbidden from accepting any job with-in a 250-mile radius of that track," said Fosner, who was executive vice president when the mandatury retire-yment age rule of Madison Square Garden Corporation. Roosevelt's parent company.
forced him out. "I got permission from Roosevelt to take this job, and I'm bere for as long as it takes."

Fosner thinks his plans could be detoured if the state legislature passes two bills currently before it that would require the tracks to pay for prerace (blood) test-ing and to pay officials di-rectly. That chuld cost over $250,000 a year that might ordinarily go to the track for improvements.

OTB payoffs: (L) 11.20, 5.40, 3.40; (KI 9.60, 4.80; (B) 2.40.

on Thursday night and also on Friday and Saturday night. The crowd will also be entertained by roving groups of musicians dressed in native costumes those three nights, including a Mexican mariachi band, a Polisb polka trio, Italian folk singers and a barbershop quartet.

By lengthening the track, Foaner is mindful of the new one-mile Meadowlands track. due to open this year in New Jersey, and the competition it would bring.

The younger horses with heir under-developed muscles are more susceptible to injury on the half-mile track, which requires four turns for a mile event. A five-eighths-mile track would eliminate one turn.

For the time being, the track will continue its program of Sunday afternoon racing with the exception of Easter, April 18. It will be closed on Mondays, but will run seven days a week from July 1 to Sept. 12, with dou-bleheaders (day and evening) planned on Saturdays in July and August.

Wood, Field and Stream: Trout Season

By NELSON BRYANT Once again, the time is near when winter-weary anglers will brave mud and cold to go forth for Thursday's open-ing of the New Ynrk State trout season. I bave never discovered who was responsible for es-tablishing the April I date, but, clearly his optimism exceeded his judgment.

April 1 isn't a bad opening time for the trout streams of Lnng Island—streams such as those rare survivors of better days, the Connetquot and Nissequogue, draining relatively small, low-lying areas that usually are free of snow long before the end of March.

But, more often than not, as one moves north, one finds brooks and rivers whose waters, fed by icy runoff from the hills and mountains, are turbid and only several

Last week the rivers were low for this early in the season and the mid-day water temperature was 44 degrees. Saturday's rain brought the water height up six or eight inches.

The rivers since have dropped and are now normal for this time of year. The water is clear and 37 degrees. is still frost in the mornings. There has been some fly life, mostly small caddis and the brown stone. Nynths, wets and bait will probably be the main standbys.

Walt Dette of Roscoe will again offer a 24-hour telephone report on streams in his area. It will begin tomorrow evening. The number is 607-498-5350.

In the Croton area, the Amawaik's waters are clear and low with the temperature S0 degrees. Fish were surface feeding on small midges. The east branch of the Crotnn was reported cloudy with high waters of 46 degrees. The west branch was clear with normal water heights and also 46 degrees.

Tal, No Longer So Terrible, Still Manages a Mean Match

BY ROBERT BYRNE

Mikhail Tal of Latvia, a former world champion, has defeated the Swedish grandmaster Ulf Andersson in an eight-game match held in Stockholm. In this exceptionally close-fought series, Tal scored with an ingenious mating attack in the fifth game; the other games all ended in draws.

A head-to-head contest such as this is uncommon nowadays, apart from the of-ficial matches for the world championship; presumably Andersson wants experience in match play in case he he-comes a contender for Aliatoly Karpov's world title. Andersson used quiet, positional queenside openings when he bad White, gaining minute advantages, but Tal's precise defense kept him at bay. With Black, Andersson relied exclusively on his favorite Scheveningen variation of the Sicilian Defense; in three of the four games with this npening. Anderson effortlessly repulsed. Tal's efforts to gain the initiative, but, in the remaining

Years ago, Tal would not have thought twice about launching the supersharp Keres attack, 6 P-KN4, but currently he is satisfied to hear to the modest 6 P-KV2. He keep to the modest 6 B-K2. He could afford to omit 12 P-QR3 in favor of 12 R-Q1, since 12 . . P-N5; 13 N-R4, NxP; 14 B-KB3, P-B4, 15 BxN, PxB; 16 N-N6, R-N1; 17 NxB, OxN; 18 OxKP produces a weak black KP.

In the Scheveningen, White is virtually forced to go for the advance 14 P-K5 because the advance 14 P-K5 because less active play would give Black time for a thematic counterattack on the half-open QB file. Andersson's 17. QR-Q1 threatened 18. NxP! 19 BxN, RxR: 20-QxR, QxN, but Tal's 18 R-Q3 took care of that while mobilizing a rook for attack across the third rank.

Stayman and Lilie Teams Bridge: Qualify for District Final

BY ALAN TRUSCOTT

Teams led by Sam Stayman of New York City and Harold Lilie of Woodmere, L.I., qualified for the district Grand National final in play at the New York Hilton Hotel Sunday.

They will meet on Sunday,
May 9, and the winners will compete in zonal playoffs a week later against Pennsylvania. Westchester-New Jersey and New England, hoping to reach the national quarterfinal.

Both semifinal matches Sunday were somewhat onesided, with the eventual winners bullding up a big lead in the first half. Staymao, teamed with Martin Schein-berg, Matt Granovetter and Jerry Shakofsky, all of New York, led by S7 international match points at the midpoint, and held on to win by 60 against a group led by Larry Markes of New York Lilie, with Harry Stappen beck of Uniondale, L.L, and Ken Lebensold and Dave Berkowitz of New York, picked up S6 points in the first 16 deals, and won even-tually by 55 points against a quintet captained by Dorothy Hayden Truscott of New York.

An Analytical Effor

Perhaps the best analytical effort of the weekend's Grand National play was produced by Granovetter in defending the diagramed deal. He opened the West hand with one spade, and North, pressing a little too hard, carried on to game when his partner jumped invitationally to two no-trump.

South captured the ten with the jack, and played the ace and another heart. If he had guessed to play the nine from the dummy, he would have brought bome the game, but naturally he played the jack, losing to the king. East returned the spade eight, covered with the nine, and when West wnn with the king the position was:

ace and the heart guard, he could be tossed in with a club lead to play away from the heart ten at the 12th trick.

It was clear to Granovetter that his partner held the club queen, because South would baye bid three no-trump, not two, with the club queen in addition to the diamond ace. So he considered underleading his club ace, but realized that there was no way for South to misguess in view of the opening bld.

Trouble Possible

And if South was allowed to win a club trick immediately with the club king, West was due for more trouble on the run of dia-monds. After three rounds, the lead would be in dummy

SOUTH ♠ Q7 ♣ 107 In this position, West can save the day by throwing the spade ace on the last diamond, relying on East to have three club tricks. But it was not clear that East had begun with four clubs, so Granovetter chose a simple play that left South with no chance. He cashed the club ace and played another club. The king won in dummy, and Granovetter watched the diamond spots carefully.

When South ended in the dummy, the spade ace was thrown. If South had eoded in the closed hand, it would

Through these ond numerous other images a network of connections can be established among birth, death, aeduction, sin, blood, genital mutilation and the Freudian symbol of the vagion deotata-in sum, the roots of the sexual anxiety Jake is experiencing in that long-ago summer of his youth. And if you trace those images further, into the patterns of the plot itself, you find it seems to suggest that sexual anxiety in turn informs much of orthodox Jewish ritual. As a matter of fact, the logic of Mr. Nissenson's story even goes so far as to suggest a parallel between the way that Judaism regards women and the manoer in which they are subjugated by Schlifka, the pimp of the story. In short, not only is there a great deal going oo beneath the flat surface of Jake's narrative, but also it conveys a message almost shockingly at odds with the warm nostalgia associated with memoirs of this form. The world of our fathers has been transformed into a Freudian nightmare.

Quality of a Dream

Does it sound too cut and dried-this linking up of dream symbols to indict not only orthodox religion but also the Marxist alternative to which Hannah Isaacs turns for a time? (In case the connection between Jake's dream and Marxism sounds farfetched, consider what Roman Osipovich Kagan, Hannah's Communist boyfriend, has to say about the birth of revolution: "To be a Marxist is to be at the same time a fatalist and . . . what? A midwife, so to speak. Yes. You know that the child will be born anyway, but you do what you can to help. You reach in and, with bloody hands, accelerate the process. [That it can be fatal to the baby] is a chance we have to take.") The network of images may sound over-schematized in summary, but in Mr. Nis-senson's art it makes perfect sense, if for no other reason thao that the narrative itself has the quality of a dream. (This accouots for both the flatness of the prose and the bollowness of the characters.) Indeed, the only technical problem that the author has failed to solve is how to attract our interest before we have caught on to the symbolic terms in which the novel is speaking. (The only character who 'came alive" for me was the repulsive Schlifka the pimp, with his Havana cigars. bis brilliantined red hair parted down the suming the right to intimacy.) But this failure is of little moment when you consider the subtle complexity of Mr. Nissenson's dream . . . and its eloquent message that neither the promise of heaven above nor that of paradise below can serve to provide meaning to life. We must stand oo our "own ground."

Who Gets Walloped?...

"They don't have the wallop we have." That was the answer given by Matthew Guinan, leader of the city's unionized transit workers, when asked why his members should not follow the no-increase pattern set earlier this month in pay negotiations covering state employees.

In line with that doctrine of unreason, 4,000 members of the Transport Workers Union went through their biennial ritual of shouting authorization for a subway and bus strike if they do not get what thay want by the time their old contract runs out at midnight

It is no secret to anyone in the unioo leadership that another debacle of the kind the T.W.U. inflicted on New York City with its devastating transit tie-up of ten years ago would represent a fatal blow to efforts to revive the confidence of the Federal Government and the investment community in the capacity of this metropolis even to restore itself to solvency. Indeed, it is just because the fiscal crisis has added such appalling new dimensions to the prospect of transit paralysis that the union is confident of municipal surrender without having to stop the trains and buses.

But buying labor peace can also represent a punishing blow to this near-bankrupt community. The city, which is currently spending $434 million a year to subsidize the transit system, cannot do more without cutting deeply into other already eviscerated services. The transit deficit is running at a $332 million annual rate. and there is no realistic chance of swift expansion in the inadequate level of Federal and state subsidies.

To raise the 50-cept fare or cut back further on service would gravely damage the city's efforts to hold and attract industry. To argue, as the Transit Authority has been doing recently, that the 50 percent drop in transit ridership in the last decade has been due to the exodus of jobs from the city and not to steady escalation in the fare is a pointless chicken-or-egg argument. Higher fares beget a declining economy and both drive away riders while swelling deficits. New York cannot afford another turn on that merry-go-round.

... Non-Stop Punch

In terms of the city's recovery, the adverse effects of higher transit labor costs would spill over into every other part of the budget in the form of "me too" adjustments for police, fire, sanitation and all other municipal employees. The austerity figures submitted to the Emergency Financial Control Board last week by Mayor Beame make no allowance for a penny of wage increase in any of these areas-whether in the form of direct or deferred boosts in wages and benefits or of cost-ofliving adjustments.

And Governor Carey has made it plain that the state bas nothing to put into the breach. The reality is that it would be hard-pressed to make its tentative agreements with state employees stick if the city breaks the wage line for its civil servants. The state employees got a $250 bonus last year, in lieu of a 6 percent pay raise recommended by a fact-finding panel but rejected by the Governor on economy grounds. For the year beginning Thursday, they are scheduled to get no more money in either higher scales or escalator payments.

No serious contention can be made that either the Transit Authority or the city is in stronger fiscal condition than the state. Even weaker is the argument that transit workers are more in need of protection against the erosive effect of inflation on their pay envelopes than are state employees.

Last week's report of the Temporary Commission on City Finances showed that labor costs of the subways and buses have gone up twice as fast as the consumer price index in the last decade. In the last year the T.W.U. members have had a 6 percent pay increase, plus 22 cents an hour in escalator payments, all outside the pay freeze that affects most other city employees.

Current basic wages for transit workers average $13,700 a year; fringe benefits and overtime raise that total to $20,787 without counting roughly $440 in costof-living adjustments. On that basis there is little claim in equity for suggesting that the city wreck its painfully wrought design for restoring fiscal integrity by saddling itself with an insupportable new wage pattern under the club of a transit strike threat.

The Stavisky Bill

The real issue bahind the present controversy over the Stavisky bill is how best to protect the quality of public education without scuttling the city's fiscal rescue plan.

The measure's initial goal was to put a stop to a policy that threatened to make disproportionate cuts in the schools for the benefit of other municipal services. At the time the bill was first introduced in the Legislature, the oudgetary ax had already fallen heavily oo the schools in the first year of the emergency, and another round of teacher layoffs was just around the

At that time, however, the hill's supporters could not know that, as a result of a series of miscalculations in the course of its passage through the Legislature, the measure would in fact require large new appropriations for the schools. The bill's sponsors had explicitly stated that no such expenditures would be required; and it was on the basis of their projections that the measure initially received support from those, including this newspaper, who merely wanted to insure fiscal fairness for

As it now stands, the bill will result either in crippling other municipal services or disrupting the enure austerity program that is necessary to lead the city back to economic stability. The Board of Education's own statistics show that, under this program, additional severe staff reductions could readily be averted by a variety of economies which are not detrimental to edu-

The best way to resolve the conflict is to salvage from a flawed bill its sound original goals of protecting oducation's legitimate interests. This can be accomplished through pledges by the Mayor and the Governor that the schools will have high priority in future allocation of funds. Such pledges might be given tangible reinforcement by the definition of some quality controls, such as maximum class size. Instead of persisting in efforts to override Governor Carey's veto of the Stavisky bill, its sponsors can best serve the schools' and tha city's indivisible cause by agroeing to such a cational quality.

The term of the next President will in all likelihood bridge the transformation of this country from a carefree squanderer of energy, as it long bas been, into an acutely energy-conscious society of the kind that rising costs and scarcity are forcing it to become.

Congress and the Ford Administration have vast unfinished work in fashioning a coherent energy policy in the months before the election; the modest energy bill that finally emerged, after a full year of hauling and screaming, scarcely begins to address critical and specific issues involved in balancing the energy budget.

In the election campaign, however, the longer-term challenge should define the debate among the candidates. How is this far-reaching transformation of a social structure and ethic to be accomplished? Can the burdens and benefits be made to fall equitably across the whole population, or will some segments be squeezed for the enrichment of others? Will, indeed, the transformation proceed under measured policy direction or continue as before by default, by a haphazard interplay of the competing interests and values?

First priority in any long-range energy policy must go to conservation, to reducing the demand side of the energy equation by eliminating wasteful practices and improving the efficiency with which energy is produced, delivered and employed. Study after study has shown conservation of existing energy resources to be the most effective and readily available "new source" of supply to meet urgent needs.

Conserving energy, no less than the parallel means of expanding supply by increasing production, involves agonizing tradeoffs. Candidates like President Ford, who have relied primarily upon the price mechanism and theoretical free-market behavior to discourage consumption, offer a straightforward and blunt formula: If the price is higher, people will use less. But this policy forces bardships indiscriminately upon poorer segments of the population and restricts essential and socially beneficial consumption of energy as well as wasteful uses.

The alternative to the price mechanism is Government direction - regulation, subsidies, controls. These techniques offer ways of distributing the burdens of scarcity where they can best be carried and of emphasizing the broad social interest in energy-related decisions as they are made. They also invite bureaucratic bungling, inefficiencies and loopholes from which the most nimble could benefit in more than fair share.

The obvious device that combines these two alternatives is a high gasoline tax-politically unpopular and requiring rare courage from the candidate who dares to advocate it. The price would rise, with all the conservation inducements that would provide; the extra revenues would go, not to the oil companies, but to the Federal Treasury which could then pump them back into society through rebates to the low-income groups and to consumers most reliant upon gasoline for their livelihood, and also through some form of subsidies to evergy producers and technologies showing most promise of national Energy policymaking is plagued by the necessity, in the words of the Brookings Institution, "to sort out real from imaginary problems and real from imaginary choices." The choice between solar and nuclear power, for instance, is imaginary. Both can play their roles in supplying this country's energy; candidates may well differ on the relative reliance to be placed on each.

One of the most prevalent, but imaginary, policy problems is the one contained in the catch phrase, "ending reliance on imported oil." As a practical matter, there are virtually no energy experts who believe that total selfsufficiency is even possible for this country under existing technology; nor, weighing the economic, social and environmental costs involved in massive expansion of domestic energy supplies, is elimination of all oil imports necessarily desirable.

Instead of echoing the outmoded rhetoric of President Nixon's Project Independence, this country's next leaders would do far better to evolve specific programs for a Project Interdependence, in which oil producers and importers would share genuine mutual interest in longterm stability of contracts. Dependence on imports from unreliable foreign sources, however, remains a national danger, reducing that dependence is vital, and it will require a massive effort to get it down from the present 45 percent even to one-third or less.

The literature of energy policy is full of catch phrases to trap the unwary and score debating points. Everyone involved can be eloquent about the need for sacrifices by everyone else. The policy leadership which this country needs for the years to come will have to make a convincing case to the electorate for sacrifices in an energy-conscious society. It would be the refusal to make those sacrifices, not the sacrifices themselves, that would inhibit growth in living standards and tarnish the quality of life for the nation and all its citizens.

Arab Boycott: "The Valid Distinction"

To the Editor: Your March 12 editorial "Boycott Backsliding" concluded that the Ford Administration may be moderating its strong opposition to discriminatory actions against American citizens or firms as a result of the Arab boycott of Israel. This conclusion is without justification. The Administration cootinues to oppose any discrimination against United States citizens or firms. on the basis of race, religion or ethnic background, and the Department of Commerce's Export Administration Regulations unequivocally forbid such conduct. The Times' editorial quotes remarks I made to legal scholars convened to discuss legal aspects of the Arab boycott. I said that United States law does not prohibit compliance with an Arab boycott request so long as the request does not entail discrimination against Americao citizens or firms on religious or ethnic grounds. Absent such discrimination, I remarked that American businessmen could make a business judgment whether to comply, and that this and prior Administrations opposed foreclosing this freedom either administratively or legislatively. 1 delivered my remarks in a scholarly forum and in oo way intended them as an inducement to American firms to cooperate with the Arab boycott.

The Export Administration Act states a national policy of eocouraging and requesting exporters to refuse to comply with boycott requests. American exporters and related service agencies are placed on notice of this policy by Export Administration Regulations and by the fact that reports which they must file on receipt of boycott requests state on their face the national policy against compliance with such boycott requests.

Congress has twice considered legislation that would forbid compliance with any Arab boycott request. On both occasions, Congress concluded that such a blanket prohibition could reduce the prospects for a peaceful settlement of Middle East tensions. Congress realized that an overall Mideast settlement is, in the long term, the only realistic way to end the Arab boycott.

I regret the confusion that my remarks, as reported by The Times, may bave caused. The Administration remains fervently opposed to any discriminatory action against American citizens as a result of the Arab boycott. At the same time, the distinction between boycott requests that are discriminatory and those that relata solely to the economic boycott of Israel by Arab states is a valid one. The Commerce Department intends to monitor the reaction of American firms to Arab boycott requests to sea that the line between permissible economic conduct and discriminatory activity is not breached.

Day-Care Catch 22

To the Editor: As one intimately involved with daycare issues, parents and children, 1 feel compelled to respond to the statement by First Deputy Mayor John E. Zuccotti quoted in The Times (March 10) that 'as many as 16,000 of the

36,000 children enrolled in 410 centers financed by the city, state and Federal governments might be ineligible," The public should be aware that New York State has lowered the financial eligibility thresholds for families to inadequate levels as part of the state's program to cut its own expenses in response to the budgetary crisis. Current eligibility maximum annual gross income levels are $11,411 for a family of four, $9,585 for a family of three and $8,730 for a family of two. Any earnings over that amount immediately disqualify a family for day care, because the former system of sliding-scale fees based on income levels has been elimioated The irony and cruelty of the current eligibility system is that children are eligible for day care while the parent is receiving welfare and during job training but once the parent obtains employment, the family income level often disqualifies the parent for the day-care services needed in order for the parent to have some place to leave preschool children while the parent is at work.

Unrealistically low Income eligibility levels wreak hardship on parents who want to work but who lose day-care eligibility if they do so. To label children as "ineligible" is conveniently to ignore this "Catch 22" reality of the present day-care eligibility system.

The Prisoner

To the Editor:

March 29 is the fifth anniversary of the arrest of Vladimir Bukovsky, the man who brought to the world's attention the Soviet practice of confining dissenters in psychiatric prisons.

Many of those on whose behalf Bukovsky had protested are now free; two, the poet Natalia Gorbanevskaya and Victor Feinberg, have even emigrated to the West. But Vladimir Bukovsky, now 33 years old, remains in prison. The Soviet authorities seem to be determined that he serve his full term-seven years of imprisonment and five years' exile-despite his rheumatic heart, liver ailment, uicer and eye infection.

Bukovsky's sole contact with the outside world is through his mother. Three weeks ago she called a friend in New York from the Moscow telegraph office but after one minute the conversation was cut off. She only had time to say that she has not received any letters from her son for two months and that she had seot to the West a special appeal in conjunction with the fifth anniversary of her son's arrest. The appeal did not LUOMILLA THORNE New York, March 24, 1976

CETA: 'Where to Now?'

To the Editor: As the third month goes out like a lamb, so will many young men and women who up to now have been working for the City of New York under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program. We have been told that it is the end of the program because there are no remaining appropriations to continue payment of our salaries. We must leave. After several nerve-testing months of rumors and threats of cancellation, they have at last announced the final phase-down of the CETA program. To some of us the program provided an opportunity to work in a field where one picked up experience and knowledge to be used for a position possibly in the private sector of the job market. To others, the CETA program was simply an opportunity to work and pick up a check. CETA workers have been praised by many as good, dependable employees, as they have also been cursed by others, like the labor unions, who called us "cheap labor," asking for our heads in the courts while requesting that we become members in order to collect dues.

As the last CETA worker cleans out his desk or locker, he will probably have one thought in his or her mind: Where to now? PETER AVILES Flushing, N. Y., March 18, 1976

Escargots for the Grackles

Wood Engraving by Fettz Eichenhere

By John L. Garrison

RYE. N.Y.-It all began on a modest-enough scale—a few scraps of stale bread thrown on the ground for the sparrows and the jays whenever there was a hard freeze or snow cover.

The response exceeded our expectatinns. It was soon to become apparent that we were not merely catering to an acquired taste. The sad truth is that the welfare state is indigenous to suburban life, and the longing for repose and a guaranteed annual wage are not the exclusive property of any one species.

Not only were we attracting more hirds than we had ever noticed in the neighborhnod before, but the waiting lines-of smaller birds while the larger birds fed-were becoming interminably

This led to our first attempts to mitiete e kind of food-stamp program, and our first major commitment of funds to the project. We purchased a Satellite bird feeder - a small gleaming spaceship of plastic and metal, at a cost of $9.95.

This proved attractive to the chickadees, the nuthatches, the tufted titmice the finches—as the ads said it would -but the blackbirds, bluejays, starlings and grackles all soon mastered the art of slipping in line and getting a free bandout. Mnreover, to keep the feeder replenished, with sunflower seed at 36 cents a pound, necessitated the purchase of a clothesline and a couple pulleys so that it could be coniently hauled in for refueling several times a day. The clothesline was eventually to serve still other purposes -roosting, for nne.

I still don't think we realized what we were getting into at this stage. To relieve the pressure on the Satellite feeder, we began to scatter seed on the ground-red millet, white millet, crown millet, milo, wheat and buckwheat joined the sunflower seed-all intended to appeal to a wide variety of jaded appetites.

This move met with partial success. What bird would fly if the same food can be picked off the ground? Today, we have birds who will hardly turn a leaf to see what tidbit may be under-

Surgery or Suicide

By Roger Wilkins

On a recent night on a quiet street in Greenwich Village a group of middie-class New Yorkers forms and grows rapidly around a man who has just been helped from the sidewalk and is standing befuddled, shaking his head. He is a doctor whn had just been mugged at the doorway of his handsome brick town house.

There is clucking in the crowd. "Terrible," says an elderly man. "Just awful," answers a slender young woman in jeans. "Ynu're not safe anywhere," the man says. "No wonder those companies are leaving town."

Just aboot a hundred blocks uptown at the corner of 116th Street and Eighth Avenue there is another kind of crowd. It is the constant mob of floaters, dreamers, purposefully lawless businessmen and corrupted children who constitute one of this city's most notorious open-air markets in drugs. There are languid men with magic hands holding glassine bags that pass from person to person and disappear before the brain is sure what the eyes bave seen. There are women and children whose eyes are as hlank as their drug-blotted minds. It is at once a teeming bazaar and the ultimate in urban desolation.

Those two street scenes in Manhattan, twelve local stops and light years apart, are rigidly connected. The shoppers in the bazear uptown can require up in $400 per week in feed their cravings. They suffer from being junk-heap Americans: those citizens who are not needed by the economy just now or perhaps ever. The jagged edges and rancid smells of the places where America's affinence has never reached define their current and future lives, their sense of themselves and of their incredibly limited human connections. The drugs sop up the emptiness for a while and the quest for the money for them will be carried to any corner of the city where it is likely to be found.

New York's arteries are thus poisoned by joblessness, hopelessness and dope. The numbers are getting worse. Dr. Robert L. Dupont, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse, says that, though there was a dip in heroin addiction during 1972 and 1973, the recent upsurge to as many as 300,000 to 400,000 people nationwide demonstrates that the nation is in the grip of a continuing heroin epidemic.

Mexican beroin is gushing into the country and there are indications that Turkish farmers are increasing their poppy crops. With unemployment bolding steady at catastrophic levels in the city's minority communities-

40 to 50 percent by some expert esti-mates—the market for the increasing imports is strong. Sterling Johnson Jr., New York's special narcotics prosecutor, asserts that drug use in Manhattan is again reaching the record levels achieved in the early 1970's.

One of the people engaged in fighting the epidemic is an attractive, slender young black man who works as an undercover New York City policeman and who risks his life on the streets of Harlem most working nights. When asked why he persisted in that-line of work, be said: "That's what I can dn for my brothers and sisters. I can fight tn get this poison off the streets. And there's a lot more brothers and sisters on the force who feel like I do, but they're cutting back because of the fiscal crisis."

Indeed, the fight against drugs is being cut back so sharply that a narcotics grand jury that sat in New Ynrk from November to January alleged in a special report that the decrease in enforcement personnel had put the drug traffic on "the semi-licit status of speakeasies during Prohibi-tinn and streetwalking in Times Square." There are figures which seem to support that contention, For example, the funds for the special prosecutor's nffice are projected to be down from $2.4 million last year tn $1.1 million next year, necessitating a decrease in personnel from 122 to 50.

Rehabilitation programs are also being slashed to the bone. State residential treatment programs, which were demonstrably weak and outrageously expensive, have appropriately been cut in the state budget by 64 percent, but the money has not been shifted to more effective efforts. Instead state aid to local programs has also been cut-by a whnpping 32 percent. And, there are reliable reports that City Hall is considering the total elimination of the $5.1 million in support it provides local communitybased treatment programs such as Phoenix and Odyssey Houses and Daytop Village.

There is no question that austerity is required to restore the fiscal health of both the city and the state but the erosion of the quality of life bere has been one of the major factors driving firms and people out of the city and undermining its fiscal stability. Drugbased street crime is central to that decline. Thus, while deep and painful fiscal surgery is clearly required, indiscriminate hacking at the entirety nf the anti-drug universe may ulti-mately prove to be more suicidal than surgical.

Is successful competition in the marketplace a criminal deed? Should American businesses be wiped nut because of archaic laws based on the ethics of Puritanism? Should American businessmen with the daring to hold Old Glory high by passing the black bag in the bazaars of Asia, Araby and Paris be scorned, hounded and condemned by their countrymen?

Legalized bribery, of course, will have to be closely regulated by the Government. Obviously, we cannot just scrub the bribery laws off the books. The national goal is not to enrich judges, politicians and policemen, but to promote the vitality of American business.

Congress will have to pass a Federal Bribery Commission Act. This will closely define the situations in which bribery is legal and set up machinery for regulating pay-offs. Businessmen will probably issue their usual complaints about red tape and Government meddling in business, but the benefits they will receive should outtion, Ltd. & Cie., to sell warplanes to a third country and is approached by an important man of the customer government, say an Emir or a Prince. And the Emir or the Prince says to Lockheed, "Look here, Lockheed's warplane isn't the worst in the world, I'll grant you, but your competitor is willing to put a million dollars into my sister's decorating business if I throw the contract their way."

Lockheed could then say, "Stay, good Emir or Prince! We are willing to sink $1.5 million into your old mother's favorite bank, and will apply at nace for a Federal bribery license

Lockheed would then file application with the Federal Bribery Commission, requesting permission to pay a legal bribe abroad and demonstrating with appropriate figures that the bribe would strengthen the nation's economic position. If the commission approved, Lockheed would be granted a bribery license to close the deal. America triumphs again, and all is perfectly legal.

Now, we are nbvinusly going to have trouble with the warid's more distinguished bribe takers. Many of them are persons of eminence in their own lands, and while they find it amusing that Americans are so puritanical about corrupting them, they would not be amused to have their eagerness for corruption publicized in their own countries. As the nld maxim goes, "A bribe-taker is not beneath dishonor, except in his own land."

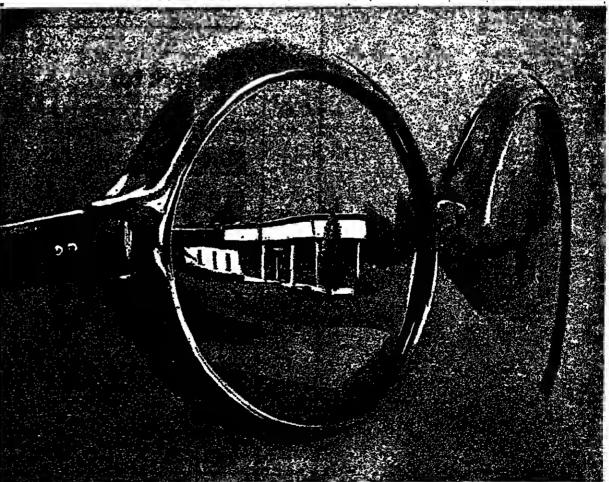

. I bring this up because when Congress writes the new law, many stockholders will press for the right to iblic hearings before the Federal Bribery Commission. This would probably destroy the entire system. If opponents of the bribe had the right to summon recipient Emirs and Princes to testify in public, most such men would probably settle for the million from the competing European briber rather than travel to Washington and endure the insolence of being asked how much they have earned in bribes over the past year.

As with Henry Kissinger and the C.L.A., secrecy must be the guiding principle of success. For this reason, all activities of the Federal Bribery Commission must be conducted in absolute darkness.

Students of human behavior may object that this will inevitably lead to the criminal practice of corporations bribing the Bribery Commissioners in order in get a favorable ruling on their nversess bribery applications. Such objections are easily met. Bribery of the Bribery Commissioners could be legalized. Businessmen who believed the good of the country required them to bribe the Bribery Gommissioners in order to get their bribery applications approved would simply apply to a Commission on Bribery of the Federal Bribery Comtion is competing with the notorious

A party suit for $27 million damages against Federal officials had led on Sunday to making public 354 pages of F.B.I. files dating from January 1960 to July 1966 oo 92 burglaries of Socialist Workers offices in five buildings here and two others to Los Angeles ed reasons of national security.

While the police and F.B.I. Congressional Herbert Romerstein, now coo-sultant to Friends of the F.B.I. said the Trotskyite party had itself stolen documents from its own dissidents. He quoted a complaint by a leader he bers expelled in July, 1974.

Jean Savage, press secretary for the party's Presidential campaign, charged that this was "fabrication" and called Mr. Romerstein a "professional witch hunter.

Mr. Romerstein has submitted some 400 pages of party documents, including the complaint by William Massey, party member, to the Senate Interna Security Subcommittee—"nooe of them burglarized" and "all directly from individuals in the said, disagreed with its aims.

incidents Listed The party complained of unsuccessful police action in the following instances:

Dec. 3, 1973—Bombing of the Political Rights Defense Fund, 156 Fifth Avenue, when two persons were injured and a concrete wall was blown out. The fund has been financing a Federal Court suit for damages that brought out admissions of 92 burglaries of party offices, made public Sunday. ¶April 24, 1969—Hurling of a hand grenade at the campaign headquarters of Paul Boutelle, then candidate for Mayor, at 873 Broadway, when 15 work-ers inside were visible from the street. The missile bounced off a window and reportedly demolished a car.

F.B.I. burglaries may never have led to earlier party complaints to the police, since the Federal files indicated material was generally photographed rather than taken away. Even on reported burglaries in the city in general, the official Police Department reports for last year indicated only 11.3 percent as "cleared" by arrests, not necessarily convictions.

Police surveillance of such roups as the Socialist Workers Party here has been understood to have involved the use of informants, rather than the burglaries now admitted by the F.B.I.

Court Suit Clted

A five-year old Federal Court suit against the police Special Services Division complaining of "overbroad and unconstitutional" use of undercover agents and surveillance is still in the discovery stages.

Mr. Romerstein, in Senate testimony published Feb. 29. cited an International Internal Discussion Bulletin dated January 1975 as including a letter from William Massey, of the Internationalist Tendency faction, to the Fourth Internationtion, to the Fourth International of World Trotskyist parties. In this, Mr. Massey condemned the United States Government's "use of spies" as iovading the American party's "democratic rights," but said "the same methods" were weed by the party majority "in used by the party majority "in their obtaining of the internal documents [and private letters]

Mr. Romerstein, in his testimooy, said "the Socialist Workers Party, while complaining about Government surveillance," itself had "a consistent policy of penetration of other organizations" and gathering internal documents and disrupting groups. He said one internal 1974 report cited "less than 11.000" members of Fourth International parties worldwide, including fewer than 1,000 io the United States. A November 1971 party report here, he said, gave party membership as 800, including 200 full-time paid functionaries. Yesterday. Nr. Romerstein estimated that the party had grown to about 1,000, with 400 members in the affiliated Young Socialist Aliiance, for an over-all total of 2,000 individuals after eliminating dual

AS EU

If you've got the time, we've got the savings.

If you can plan to stay at least 22 days and not more than 45 days visiting Europe, TWA can save you money. A lot of money. If you want to leave right away, our Excursion Fare can save you from 31% to 44% off the Economy Fare. If you can plan ahead, our APEX Fare can save you as much as 49%. Additionally, by really spending time in Europe your trip becomes a European experience, not just a brief vacation.

By charging these fares on your TWA Getaway* Card you can extend your payments over time.

Here's how the fares work:

TWA's 22-45 Day Excursion Fares

To qualify, buy your round-trip ticket before departure, stay at least 22 days and no more than 45. If you travel on Friday, Saturday or Sunday, there's a $15 surcharge each way.

TWA'S APEX Fare

This fare has some additional conditions but you can save a lot more money. Purchase your confirmed round-trip ticket within 7 days of booking but at least 2 months before departure.

Once your APEX ticket has been issued, any changes before departure are subject to a $50 or 10% cancellation fee, whichever is higher. Should you change your plans en route where the return portion of your APEX ticket cannot be used, the entire APEX fare may be applied as a credit toward the purchase of any higher applicable fare.

Obviously, fares like these are going to be popular. And since seats on all APEX flights are limited, the sooner you book the better. So what are you waiting for? Just call your Dramatizations on July 4 will include reading the Declaration of Independence at the Federal Hall, at left; purchase of Manhaitan from the Indians by Peter Minuit, and the surrender of Menw Amsterdam by Peter Shiyvesant to the British. The day will also include Operation Sail around Manhattan and Fireworks.

By FRED PERRETTI

From Castle Clinton to City Hall, from river to river, in what was the city's Colonial harbor and mercantile area, New the Yorkers on July 4 will remember the 200th anniversary of the signing of the ceaseless entertainment, folk music, historical readings, ethnic foods and festivals and side-street concerts.

The dayloog program is planned as the land-based companion celebration to Operation Sail-the rendezvous of the massive armada of sailing and military vessels from all over the world—around Manhat-tan Island. The city's Bicentennial observ-ance will be capped in the evening with a Wait Disney-produced fireworks display

But they can't travel far enough to get what we've given the community. You come in here and you meet your friends and you find out what's going on and what they're doing."

Only about 175 rural postoffices have been closed so far, but Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar has said under review."

The oumber of closings could rise to 12,000 of the 30,700 post offices across the country—the biggest cut in history—ff Mr. Bailar's policy of "economic reality" in delivering the mail prevails against often fierce llocal. Congressional and litigious oppositioo.

According to Postal Service figures, at oo time since 1901, when there were 76,925 post offices in only 45 states, bas the oumber of post of-fices diminished by more than 3,000 in a year, as it did in 1904 and 1905.

Since then, it was not until the Depression year of 1934 that post office closings exceeded 1,000. Under the former policy of simply not replacing retiring postmasters at marginal stations only 246 small post offices were closed last year.

Loss of Customers

At one of them, Stage G. Dillard, the 67-year-old general atore proprietor and postmaster for 43 years until his retirement a few months ago, said the closing of the post office in a corner of his store had resulted in a loss of customers. He said it had also reduced his determination to stay open six days a week, 52 weeks a year, as be and his postmasdone for more than 90 years to mind the United States

"We haven't had many va-cations," Mr. Dillard said, referring to himself and his wife, the assistant postmas-ter. "I went 40 years before I used a single day of sick leave. But we've seen a lot of progress here, you might say, although it comes right slowly." He added: "In 1933, when I started, postmasters were paid by keeping the cancellation fees on outgoing letters. We didn't have electricity bere until 1940, when they paved the road. And then they put some of our people on rural carrier delivery, with the mail in roadside boxes, and we started losing out. Last year, we averaged 18 pieces of mail out, and it wasn't enough."

Mr. Dillard sat in a sagging overstuffed chair beside an cluttered store at the cracked the bins of Clarke's O.N.T. thread, the candle lantern nung from a low beam and the windows of empty mail boxes. "Now," he said with a smile of anticipation that did not camouflage the sad-dness, "without the post of-fice to worry about, we can close any time we want to."

In a 6-to-3 decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states may prosecute and imprison people who have participated in homosexual acts even though the parties were consenting adults and the act occurred in a private place. The Court thus sharply reversed a trend over the last 10 years in which it had increasingly expanded the con-cept of the constitutional right to privacy. The Court acted without hearing arguments and without issuing an opinion. The decision affirmed without comment the 2-to-1 ruling of a lower Federal court that had rejected a challenge to a Virginia law prohibiting consensual sodomy. [1:8.] Astonishment and dismay were expressed by spokesmen for homosexual and civil liberties groups over the Suprema Court's affirmation of a state law against private homosexual acts. They said the decision was government step into the bedroom. [17:1-2.]

The Right to a Tobacco-Free Job

An employee of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company who had sued her employer on charges of denying her a work place "free from injurious and toxic substances" has been temporarily granted the right to work in an environ-ment free from the tobacco smoke that she said made her sick.

Donna M. Shimp of Salem, a telephone service representative who has worked for Jersey Bell for 15 years, sued on March 19 in the Chancery Division. of State Superior Court in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Shimp charged that the smoke in the last six years had artisted her nose, throat and eyes and that last April it "became so acute" she was unable to work.

The court temporarily granted her the right to work in a smoke-free environment, pending a hearing of the company's side on Friday.

The temporary solution was to transfer a co-worker who smoked near Mrs. Shimp to another department, according to Mrs. Shimp's lawyer, Stuart B. Finif-ter of Atlantic City. But, he said, his client could not be sure the "unhealthful" situation would not recur.

Mr. Finifter said his research had indicated that there was no legal precedent for the case.

In her search for a remedy, Mrs. Shimp exhausted all avenues open to

The National Labor Relations Board she said, advised her that although tobacco smoke in the work environment was known to be a potential health hazard, there were no laws or standards to protect the worker.

Mrs. Shimp secured affidavits from eight experts attesting to the potential health hazard created by "passive inha-istion of second-hand smoke." Among those supplying affidavits were two former Surgeons-General, Luther L. Terry and Jesse L. Steinfeld.

The case was prepared without fee by a team of legal experts under the direction of Alfred W. Blumrosen, professor of law at Rutgers University. Others participating, in addition to Mr. Finiter, were Morion Deitz, a Trenton-based lawyer, and Paul Axel-Lute, documents librarian at the Putgers January Lawrence Librarian at the Putgers Lawrence Lawr uments librarian at the Rutgers Law

Ex-Suffolk Aide Put on Probation

Richard Wyssling 32-year-old former Suffolk County Personnel Commissioner, was put on three years' probatioo for giving evasive answers to a Suffolk County grand jury that was investigating his business partnership with a man who allegedly had connections to the underworld.

Mr. Wyssling's partner in a proposed auto salvage company, Joseph Petrizzo, 51, and the Babylon deputy highway commissioner, Edward Waldman, 41, were given one-year probationary terms by Judge Henderson W. Mor-rison of Nassau County Court.

State Supreme Court Justice Gilbert King said Mr. Tavano was to pay the fine within one year or cootioue serving his iail term. Justice King did oot set a minimum term. Mr. Tavano was coovicted of overcharging the county by almost $400,000 during his term as insurance consultant to the Niagara County Legislature.

Late-Payment Gas Charge Allowed

The Public Service Commission told the Brooklyn Union Gas Company to go ahead with an experiment of assessing a late-payment charge against any of the 4,500 owners of multiple dwellings that use gas for heating or hot water who become delinquent in paying their hill. The charge is the standard small loan rate, 1.5 percent a month. The landlords, 2.4 percent of all heating customers, were responsible for 27 percent of last year's uncollectible bills.

From the Police Blotter:

A 31-year-old Bronx man was fatally shot in the bead when, bolding his 5-year-old daughter by her hand, he entered a bodega at 1416 Fulton Avence in the Bathgate section as two armed robbers fled from the shop with $400. The victim was identified as Christopher Allen of 1385 Fulton Avenue. . . . An East Harlem man, identified as George Lazano, 20, of 126 East 103d Street, was arrested in the stabbing to dear Social Akers, 31, a barmaid in a social club at 102 East 103d Street. The slaying reportedly took place after Mrs. Akers had told the suspect to leave the premises. . . §A Harlem man, identified as James Taylor, 20, of 368 Lenox Avenue, died in Harlem Hospital a few hours after being taken there with a gunshot wound. Mr. Taylor, the police said, staggered into a woman friend's apartment on West 117th Street, after apparently having been shot nearby.

Use of Wiretaps Is Proposed to Halt Illegal Sales by Organized Crime

By ROBERT E. TOMASSON A ranking city police officer told a state task force yesterday that police efforts to halt the widespread sale of untaxed cigarettes had done little more han "solidify organized-crime's control of the cigarette-bootegging industry."

The officer, Deputy Inspector Daniel J. McGowan, told the state panel that, while efforts to curtail the illegal sales had "a devastating effect on the independent and casual violators," the mass importation of untaxed cigarettes into the city had been absorbed by organized crime using "very sophisticated" techniques.

"All of our actions to data

"All of our actions to date, although commendable, have rette-tax evasion pattern," Inspector McGowan told the oine. member task force at a daylong hearing at the World Trade

The state task force, headed by Alfred Donati Jr., director of the special investigations bureau of the Department of Taxation and Finance, was created 13 days ago by tha State Tax Commissioner, James H. Tully Jr.

When he appointed the task force, Mr. Tully estimated that the state and local municipali-ties were losing almost $85 millioo a year in clgarette-tax

Mr. Donati and other members of the task force said major recommendation that the panel was expected to make was for legislation that would nclude suspected cigarette-

John L. Kase, the assistant Nassau County district attorney in charge of the rackets hureau, supported the wiretap proposal as necessary for "a crime where ordinary surveil lance techniques and normal lance techniques and normal investigative procedures have proven inadequate."

Drops Being Changed Inspector McGowan, Mr. Kase and other speakers at the bearing also stressed that the takeover of the cigarette-boot-legging industry by organized crime called for oew laws specifically a broader wiretap statute. "More camonflage is being used," Inspector McGowan said, adding:

"They have become more circumspect in their nefarious activities. Trailer-truck-size loads are being broken down. Drops are being changed, license prates switched."

Last January, state and city taxes on each pack of cigarettes sold legally here rose to a total of 26 cents, compared with a total of 3 cents levied in North Carolina, where most of the bootleged cigarettes orig-

Another witness at yester-day's hearing was "Mr. X" a stocky man, who wore a brown paper bag over his head. He told the panel that he had been a seller of untaxed cigarettes in "the Brooklyn-Canar-sie section" since 1969. He said he knew of no organized-crime figures and had sold the cigarettes only "to pay some bills."

And this lack of apprehension, in the opinion of Jo Gross, the direc-tor of the center, which takes care of 128 children, is an important change in the attitude that most of the children bave toward doctors. "Most of Geoffrey's work is un-doing the trauma that these kids have suffered," she says. "They were terrified of doctors, of needles. They went to clinics and they had the borrendous experience of seeing a different face every time and never

"For us, this volunteer program works out very well," she adds. "The doctors have a very personal relationship with the children, their pareots and the staff."

Dr. Stein said that, although he did not bave "any model to go by," he wanted to be more than "just a needle-pusher" at the center.
"We wanted to give good primary health care," he said.

One of the first steps, he said, was to devise an extensive case-history form that he fills out oo a child's first visit. He asks for information that is intended to pick up subtle nuances of a child's health record as well as other information concerning the child's developmental history. "You can pick up a lot of things by finding out how the child was delivered, for instance,"

Dr. Stein said.

About 50 percent of the children are black, 40 percent are Puarto Rican and 10 percent are white. Most come from low-income families, and, Dr. Stein says, many bave not had adequate medical care. "We had a child labeled as a very slow learner," Dr. Stein said, when asked to illustrate why he felt it was important for children at Nevins to get consistent pediatric care.

Careful monitoring of the children and his being in the day-care cen-ter with them, Dr. Stein said, enable him to note many health problems that might not be evident in another, less-intimate setting. Dr. Stein says ha believes in community-based medicine—in being completely involved with the people he serves. And, he says, he hopes that other teaching hospitals, like his own, will set up similar outreach programs.

"I guess it seems like a poor answer to say I just thought it was a good thing to do to volunteer to come here," he says, "bnt that's my answer. I guess also it's an altrustic thing to do, too, because

Music: Mehta Leads Philadelphians

Does Brilliant Mahler at Carnegie Hall

By HAROLD C. SCHONBERG It was Zubin Mehta's first local appearance since the annoucement of his appointment to the New York Philharmonic. So a large audi-ence went to Carnegie Hall last night to see him at the helm of the Philadelphia Orchestra in Mahler's Second Symphony, the "Resurrectioo." Mr. Mebta and late romantics, especially Mahler, are supposed to bave a symbiotic relationship. One could see why, last night. He cooducted a brilliant Mahler and, at the same time, a totally businesslike performance. There was much to admire in his approach, which could be fairly de-scribed as midway between that of Leonard Bernstein and Pierre Boulez.

He had some of Bernsteio's temperament, and some of the Boulez analytic structuralism, dut of course he also was very much his own man. His tempos were rather fast -much faster than Mr. Bernstein's-and he never dawdled over the music, no matfer what the provocation. And we all know how much provocation there is to daw-dle in Mahler. But he did read between

There was a large amount of perfectly controlled liberty ritards in strategic emotional spots, a personal shape to the phrasing, an emphasis on culor, a rhythm that never flagged. Luigi Tagliavini Plays on Tully Hall Organ

Any series of recitals by visiting organists presents at least one serious problem. The organ is an implausibly complicated instrument that a performer, even a great ooe, simply does not sit down to and play with utter coo-fidence. A great many re-hearsals are generally required before a player feels at home with an unfamiliar organ, far more so than would be the case with a planist or violin-

Luigi Tagliavini, who gave a recital on the Alice Tully Hall organ Sunday night, sur-mounted these built-in diffimounted these built-in diffi-culties with reasonabl suc-cess. A tall, spare Italian scholar, Mr. Tagliavini played a program of talian or Italian-influenced works by Alessandro Scariatti, Domenico Scariatti, Bach, Respighi and Vivaldi (the Concerto in D minor arranged by Bach). At times in the Italian pieces, particularly in some organ sonatas by Domenico Scarlatti, Mr. Tagliavini Scarlatti, Mr. Tagliavini made such frequent and such fussy registral changes that the musical line was fragmented, but bls Bach was admirably direct.

At his best, io slighter pieces where bis constrained style did the music oo in-justice, Mr. Tagliavini made less of an impressioo than in a work of grandeur such as Bach's Prelude and Fugue in A minor. This is music unsuited to the primly accurate approach favored by the recitalist.

'BALL' AND 'PAVANE

restoration of Kurt Jooss's work to a current generatioo of dance audiences is a major coup for the City Ceoter Joffrey Ballet. Over the weekend the company showed the two ballets that it revived this seasoo, with a few cast changes.

"A Ball in Old Vienna" is the lightest of the four Jooss works now in repertory, and it represents the choreographer in a humorous frame of miod, exploring that frothy battleground, the ball.

Oo Sunday Russell Sultzback
portrayed the dance master, fussily going about his business of organizing the others and carefully demonstrating the currect form for the individual dances. Krystina Jurkowski was his sweeping and gracious partner, and together they managed to keep the action flowing in proper form despite the fluttery and predatory in-cursions of the aunts. Pavane on the Death of an Infanta" again showed itself beautiful dramatic vignette as Francesca Corkle, dacing the happy Infanta, was slowly crushed by the coldness of the court, daociog with machioe-like precision. The two ballets are strikingly concise and luve-ly. DON McDONAGH

The remaining 19 statues are now all believed to be in Thailand, probably in private collections, Dr. Rangsrit said. He said an investigation had been started to trace the path of the statue from Thailand to the Metropolitan Museum. Thus far, he said, it has been determined that one of several dealers in Bangkok sold the statue to a prominent British dealer. Sphinks and Son, who in turn resold it to the Manhatter art dealer.

the Manhattan art dealer, Ben

Heller, from whom the Metro-politan bought it. During the former military regime, overthrown in a coup in October 1973, large fortunes were made by a number of prominent art dealers here working closely with senior Customs Department officials and others io the military hierarchy.

Dr. Rangsrit said that American military personnel stationed in Thailand were also responsible for exporting some of these works, but other Thai officials noted that a statue of the size and weight of the Metropolitan piece could have been exported only by a major dealer and in cooperation with the Customs Department.

"No matter how it got out of the country, it still has a very deep historical value for us," Dr. Rangsrit said. "And Its artistic value is great

Cutting Edges 'Croon' at Performing Garage

By MEL GUSSOW In "Croon," upstairs at the Performing Garage, women talk about women, but the play is addressed to every-one in the audience. It has considerable to say, most oil it comic, not only about the mother-daughter relationship the core of the work, but about all relationships—particularly the ticularly the roots of family conflict. "Croon" is the ensemble creation of a new company called the Cutting Edge, composed of women who used to be members of the defunct experimental theater group Section Ten. The artistic director, in both cases, is Andrea Balis.

In the show's program, Miss Balis describes how the work began, "We started from the feeling that there were things all mothers wanted to say to their daughters an dcouldn't, and there were things all daughters need to say to their mothers and never will."

Interviews with the actresses' own mothers and with outsiders led to provisations, scenes and, fin provisations, scemes and, fin-ally, a play—an anthology of women's complaints. The grievances are both petty and cosmic. The Cutting Edge's satiric knife is sharp, its justice equitable; we are all on a guilt trip together. Though the work came out of the entire ensemble it is of the entire ensemble, it is performed by two persons— Sara Christiansen (tall, redsara Christiansen (rail, red-haired) and Abigail Costello (short, brunette), both of them engaging and clever. Donning masks for a pre-lude, they quickly mime—it seems like 10 seconds—a history of their gender (from birth to maternity). In the body of the play, they keep switching roles. First, one is the daughter, then the other. There are no costume changs, only boxes as scenery—and two artful actresses. The nO the curving streets of lower Manhattan the "July 4 in Old New York" festival will display Colonial costumes, the foods and dancing and literature of more than 25 of the ethnic groups that live here. There will be Newport Jazz at the World Trade Center and banjos at the South Street Seaport.

The Declaration of Independence will be read from the steps of Federal Hall and copies of it will circulate throughout the festival area for people to sign — right under John Hancock's name.

South William Street and Mill Lane will become one square block of "Young New York," with 1776 revolutionary debate raging from wood-en pedestals, printing presses running off broadsides, craftsmen training apprentices, and carriages awaiting their owners. The trial of John Peter Zenger, editor of the New York Weekly Journal, New York Weekly Journal, to secure the right of freedom of tha press, will be re-enacted in Delmonico's Square.

At II A.M. Operation Sail begins, and Manhattan is purchased by Peter Minuit from the Indians. Zenger will be tried at II:30. The Sons of Liberty will steal the British cannons from Battery Park at 12:30. Gov. Peter Stuyvesant will order Nieuw Amsterdam cleaned up at 2:30, and at 5 P.M. the British will invade Manhattan. At 6 P.M., there will be a candlelight procession from Trinity Church to St. Paul's Chapel.

Throughout the day and throughout the festival area. there will be music on a small scale by banjo and gultar players and by roving street bands. The United States Navy Band will come in from Washington for a Battery Park concert, and in the evening the American Symphony Orcbestra, con-ducted by Morton Gould, will perform.

At the World Trade Center,
Count Basie and his Orchestra will lead the Newport Jazz Festival "Salute to the Bi-centennial," and in City Hall Park the United States Coast and energy is responsible for the creation of more than 6,100 public works during the past ten years.

The Valdesia Dam is of great economic importance to The Dominican Republic. It assures the investor, and prospective factoryowner, a source of electricity that does not depend on costly petroleum. And it gives great impetus to the far-reaching Agricultural Reform of the Government of Dr. Balaguer. Farmers who for centuries eked out a precarious existence on barren land. now enjoy the full fruits of their labors, with as many as three cash crops annually.

The Valdesia Dam is of special significance because it represents the efforts of our Dominican Government to transform its agrarian and industrial economy entirely through its own efforts and resources. From the very start, the enormous project was financed by the Government, including the infrastructure and the relocation to new and modern housing of the villages and farms which now lie under the waters of the 7mile-long lake formed for hydraulic and irrigational purposes. Much credit is due to the training of Dominican engineers and technicians now operating the generators and other equipment.

VALDESIA is further proof that the Dominican People and Government have the capacity and determination to continue improving our fast-developing technical capacity and economic development. This development has made The Dominican Republic a country where the Gross National Product has increased at a higher rate than almost every country in the world generally being first or second among all nations during the past decade.

Since its inauguration this year VALDESIA will contribute even further towards that growth.

We are proud to be permitted to share our country's advancement.

Eurodollar bonds are gaining in popularity among American investors and, for financing, among U.S. corporations. For good reason.

They are no longer subject to the interest-equalization tax that formerly limited any advantage in interest income to American investors.

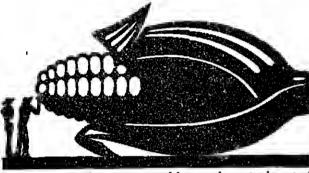

Eurobonds range in great variety-long-term or short, convertible or straight. They offer very attractive yields. Through this unique market, investors now have available to them over 100 convertible issues guaranteed by major U.S. corporations. Sometimes they are the only convertibles issued by a firm.

Kidder, Peabody is one of the very few investment bankers who manage, underwrite and distribute substantial amounts of Eurobonds. And, our European subsidiary (Kidder, Peabody Securities, Limited), is among the largest Eurobond trading firms in the secondary market. If you are an investor of professional acumen, or a financial officer of your firm, you'll want the latest intelligence on this growing money market. You'll find us a foremost source. # Market Place

Another View of Index Funds

By ROBERT METZ

In the discussion over the advantages of investing in a careful selection of stocks designed to mirror the performance of a leading market index, the argument is made that such an "index fund" would inevitably lag in a bull market, as would the indicator it was designed to

In response, the indexers say that the non-believer might as well stay with the index fund because he will not know until after the fact that the market was indeed

After these points were made io an article in this space on March 17, W. S. Wurzburger, a veteran mar-ket observer and a member of the investment firm of Wurzburger, Morrow & Keough Inc. in Mount Kisco. N.Y., wrote to say that it was not as difficult to know where the market was in would suggest.

In typical astringent commentary, Mr. Wurzburger

"When my watch says 10 o'clock it doesn't tell me whether it's morning or night. But I can usually make a good judgment unless I'm locked in a closet.

"Naturally I cao still be wrong if it happens to be the ooe day in 30 years when there's a full eclipse of the sun and I am too stupid to know. And if I happen to be in Quito, Ecuador, where the sun rises at 6 where the sun rises at 6 every morning and sets at 6 every night, I should be able to tell whether it's 6 A.M. or 6 P.M., unless I doo't know my East from my Wast"

Mr. Wurzburger added that he was sure "eveo a sixth grader" could learn all be. needed to know about the relative level of the stock market by gauging the com-biced price of the 30 Dow Jones iodustrial stocks about 1,000 against their more re-ceotly reported combined earnings per share ($75.39).

Mr. Wurzburger conceived of this market measure some time hack and one year ago persuaded a leading finan-cial-chart publisher, M. C. Horsey & Company Inc. of Salisbury, Md., to lockude a 40-year chart of this ratio lo its hi-monthly chart book of the stocks of 1,700 compa-

Mr. Wurzburger contrasts his chart with that of the Dow Jones industrial prices, with "successively higher and higher peaks followed hy equally deep crevices." Rather, the price-earnings Dow chart is one of "contin-ual stoping hills and rolling

Mr. Wurzburger continues: "The high was 25.8 back in late 1938 when the Dow was 150 From a 'hindsight' basis this turns out to be the most overpriced level for the market generally in the last 38 years. The next highest hilltop was 24.2 in 1961 when the Dow was around 700. The two lowest levels: Toward the end of 1974 when the chart was at 6 at which time the Dow was around 600; and in mid-1949 when the chart was at 7 and the Dow itself a bit over 160." He commeots that the chart's median line for the 40-year span is a "shade un-der 15." He adds: "When the index gets up to 18 it is an obvious orange light. When it gets above 20 it is 3 o'clock in the morning and the party is turning into a hrawl. Those who stay will be lucky if they wiod up with only a bad hangover. Conversely, when the chart is under 10, it is the type of affair you is the type of affair you can safely invite your cau-tious maiden aunt to come

Mr. Wurzburger ootes that most corporations speed two to three months preparing to three months preparing their earnings results for their latest quarters and that the earnings for the 30 Dow stocks for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1975, have just become available. Since this "lag" prevents the use of up-to-the-minute earnings results in the chart, it is results in the chart, it is sometimes oecessary to ad-just for improving or deteriorating conditioos.

A gain of 25 to 30 percent A gain of 25 to 30 percent io corporate earnings this year over last should raise the combined share earnings oo the Dow stocks for 1976 to somewhere around $100. Mr. Wurzburger commeots:

The accompanying chart of the price-earnings ratio of the Dow stocks, prepared by M. C. Horsey & Company hy M. C. Horsey & Company has been updated to reflect closing prices last Friday.

A bank that provides uncommon personal service: Morgan Guaranty

People with substantial incomes and assets have uncommon banking needs. Morgan Guaranty answers their needs with an uncommon approach to personal banking.

Designed to serve individuals who normally keep $2,000 or more in their checking accounts, personal banking at Morgan means "old-fashioned" personal service and the ability to respond to an unusually wide range of financial requirements besides a checking account. It also means that at Morgan you receive the attention of a skilled professional who serves a relatively few clients. He or she knows your special needs and how to put the worldwide facilities of the bank to work for you.

If our uncommon approach to personal banking appeals to you, visit one of our New York offices or write for our booklet on personal banking. Address Morgan Guaranty, Box 600, 299 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

CHARTING A SAFE COURSE OVER THE LONG HAUL.

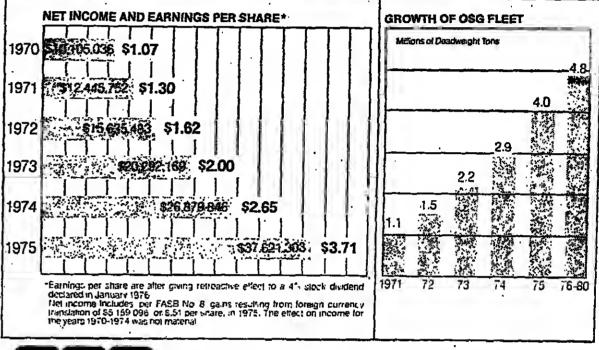

company engaged exclusively in bulk shipping. But it doesn't take a shipping expert to read our growth charts. Our fast-growing fleet is charting a safe course over the long

With one of the most modern and efficient fleets afloat, OSG transports grain, oil, iron ore, coal and other bulk commodities to ports around the globe. That's what we do exclusively. in both the U.S. and worldwide shipping markets.

OSGs upward trend in earnings has been sustained throughout the lows as well as the peaks of the bulk shipping markets. This record of steady growth, and OSG's future prospects; derive mainly from a chartering policy strongly favoring long-lerm contracts and a prudent fleet expansion program.

The linancial strength and stability of OSG, as measured by the linancial statements in our Annual Report, provide a solid loundation for the future growth of our company.

Better trading results... Further improvement expected

Sir Richard Dobson

Points from the Chairman's speech:-

Past year: Trading outcome was better than expected a year ago. Profit after tax attributable to BAT rose by 17%; not entirely satisfactory when inflation in the United Kingdom exceeded 25%. However, after setting aside sufficient to meet increased costs of replacing stocks and fixed assets at inflated prices and paying the maximum dividend permissible, the Group financial strength has been increased. Tobacco: The growth of cigarette consumption continues to be slow in most developed countries, but I expect further improvement in profits.

Retailing: Profits are better in the United States but grocery stores are under pressure, particularly in the United Kingdom.

Paper: Orders are beginning to pick up but recovery is slow.

Cosmetics: I expect the profits growth to continue.

Conditions in the United Kingdom: There are the first beginnings of a new inflation rate of 15% or even 10%, if and when the rate can be brought down that far, should still be regarded as potentially disastrous. Private enterprise in industry must flourish if our economy is to survive. Industry badly needs a breathing space in which it can get on with its job and plan for the future.

Prospects: I look to increased profits in all four Divisions. Despite proportionately higher taxation I expect a modest increase in the net profit attributable to BAT, without allowing for any change in the value of sterling on the foreign exchanges.

W	confidence, but an

Sabena Aims at Affluent Suburbs

Sabena Belgian World Air-Sabena Belgian World Airlines has gone to television edvertising for the first time, which isn't that big e deal. What is a big deal, though, is the way the carrier, through its agency, Ries Capplello Colwell, is zeroing in on the affluent suburbs of New York and Philadelphia with a newspaper and direct. with a newspaper and direct-mail campaign.

The idea of using local print advertising and direct mail was tested last year in Farfield County, Conn., and, according to Richard Nickson, market research and advertising manager for North America, business from the area increased 40

He was at a news conferand heard. Jack Tront, its president, explain the think-ing behind the new "beauti-ful Belgium" campaign.

In what Mr. Trout calls the "North Atlantic jungle" Sabena flies only between New York and Brussels and so is at a disadvantage to those eirlines that have several gateway cities, especially in the more popular destination countries.
"We decided we had to position the country, not the airline. Get traffic to Belgium. Do what KLM did for Amsterdam," said Mr. Trout "What's in Belgium? That's the $64 question," he went on "We felt we had to find a hook to hang the country That book turned out to be the discovery by the agen-cy that the Michelin Guide for the Benelux countriesthe guide rates cities as well as restaurants—gives six cities a three-star rating. One is Amsterdam in the Netherlands. All the rest are in

So the 60-second TV com-mercial, the radio spots (thia is also Sabena's first major radio effort) and some of the print ads will play up the heauties of the five threestar cities-Antwerp, Bruges, Brussels, Liege and Tournal.

Now, since Sabena is well aware that Belgium is not high up on the must-visit list for first-time European travelers it is concentrating on households with enough income to visit more than once. . Its direct mail lists is made up of suburban households with a $30,000 or more annual income.

The newspaper ads that will run in about 30 snburban newspapers will be custom-ized slightly so that the area or town will be mentioned along with the tag, "See your local travel agent." In addition the agency has prepared small-space ads for use by travel agents. Previously, most of Sabena's budget has been almost entirely spent in magazines and a select number will still be used—The New York Times Magazine, Gourmet, Fairfield County, Westchester, Philadelphia, and the Smithsonian.

Great Adventure Stresses Love Greet Adventure in Jackson, N. J., is more than an amusement park with lots of rides. Its new management helieves this and believes it because management sampled the opinions of people who have visited there.

Half the people thought it was even better than they had hoped it would be, said Ron Herman, the ad director, they see it as a great place to get away from the bustle of city life, a place where families feel that they come closer together.
"You feel a sense of love everywhere," added Ron Rosenfeld of Rosenfeld, Sirowitz & Lawson, Great Adventure's new agency, just before he and Len Sirowitz showed So, rather than advertising the park's hardware as advertising for the last two seasons has, the agency has tried to capture the feeling of love and they've hired Jerry Lewis as spokesman to help do it.

The park will open May 1 for the season after a 15-day preview that begins on April 10. The opening will be heralded on TV and radio and on billboards and newspaper ads will carry discount coupons. The budget is almost $2 million, But can you buy love?

I think I'm out of the woods now, Paul.

Our March 29 final closing has been extended to April 7.

We've set up the fastest close in the West. Just five days prior to issue we will accept both orders and materials, including 4-color. That's for the first issue. It's also for every issue thereafter. However, for the first issue, you'd better hurry because the response has been fantastic.

Make it by April 7 and here's what you get.

You get New West in all its glory. New West with all its investigative reporting, incisive reviewing and juicy insights into California lifestyle. New West with its enlightened, sophisticated, affluent readers. In other words, California's answer to New York.

Make it by April 7 and you get a bonus circulation, too.

Last time we looked, our rate base was 125,000. But responses to our test mailing and coupon ads keep pouring in. But no matter how high it gets, you still get the rate based on 125,000. But at the rate we're growing, this deal won't last forever.

We're bending over backwards to impress you.

Our frequency and volume discounts are terrific. But more terrific is our introductory discount discount. Depending on the buy, you save up to 50% for the first issue. And if you can combine New West and New York Magazines, you get your space for a song. And your message to the country's two largest markets at the same time.

We're rooting for you.

We hope this gives you time enough to get in our first issue first. Because we'll be on the newsstands April 12 with our April 26 issue. And that's a promise.

Wheo Mrs. O'Connell first lived at the Traemore, records indicate, she was a police dispatcher. But something happened that caused ber to lose touch with reality, and she spent 19 years in Manteno State Hospital io Kankakee County.

During those years, court decisions, new drugs and a professional campaign to end the "warehousing of mental hospital patients" combined to produce a drive to emply state meotal hospitals. In 1972, Mrs. O'Connell was moved to the Traemore, a six-story brick building in a rundown section of Chica-

At the time, she says "I didn't want to go," hut now she is satisfied with her accommodations.

The Traemore is one of three homes owned by Julius and Louis A. Pure and their wives and sons, who feel as trepped by criticism of their homes and their industry as do the resideots of Traemore. Within the last yeor, the New staff members have been hired to end what the reports labeled neglect of patient needs that resulted in the mysterious deaths of healthy patients in years past. The administrators in-sist that residents are not standard pay and denied thereby the opportunity of being placed in regular employment outside the home. From 1970 to 1975, half of the patients in Illinois state mental hospitals-71 percent of them older than -were discharged, state figures sbow.

About one in five was sent a community facility known to the department, but the fate of the rest is unknown to the authorities of the department. State reports say that at least half of all geriatric pa-tients discharged in 1974 had some organic brain disorder, and one in five was diag-nosed as schizophrenic. But only 22 percent are still receiving treatment in a state facility, Dr. Godwin said.

Many find their way into shelter care facilities like the Traemore, half of which are in the uptowo area, a rundown, mile-square district in which the former patients are often subject to street

In a report last fall, the Better Government Associa-tion described the discharge program this way:

"Pursuing the policy of 'deinstitutionalization,' the State of Illinois bas encouraged tha exodus of mental patients from state hospitals to neighborbood-based, pri-vately operated facilities. Here they are to be provided care and integratioo into the life of the community."

But the association said that while changes had taken place in the homes in Chica-go, the basic problems remained.

"The privately owned facilities lack trained personnel," the report said, "Many residents are continuously oversedated and there is no real attempt to accomplish the primary mission of integratiog resideots Into the life of the surrounding community." The Pure family has a different view.

"Community mental health is a good theory of the state, Washington agencies and everyone else," said Julius Pure. "The problem is it does not work."

"The theory is that the residents should be made 100 percent wbole people," said

Many of the patients have been in institutions for more than 20 years, Mr. Pure said, and have to be taught bow to use telephones and do other simple tasks in the world outside. Some have tried to use the Traemore as a halfway house, moving in pairs to their own apart-ments, but they returned, one by one, disoeveled and dirty, Mr. Pure said, and fewer of the residents talk about leaving now. The halfway bouse, he says, has become their new institutional home. Pure Family's Problems

This is not what the Pure family had in mind when in 1961 it decided to expand its catering business into an American plan hotel, or boarding home. A number of frieods were entering the nursing-home business at the time. Louis Pure said, and his family agreed to take 15 charges from the state.

Car Pools, Staggered Work Hours, Relaxed Parking Rules Among Steps

By EMANUEL PERLMUTTER Contingency plans calling for the use of car poola, staggered working bours in Manhattan's central business district and the easing of parking regulations will go into effect if there is a transit strike, Mayor Beame announced yesterday.

Mr. Beame announced the plans at City Hall in company with Police Commissioner Michael J. Codd, who will be in charge of the emergency arrangements.

"I am hopeful that the transit negotiations can be settled without disrupting the city." the Mayor said. "But we have set up this emergency plan to protect the welfare and safety of our people."

The plans announced by Mr. Beame were generally those that were in effect during the 12-day strike in 1966 that halted the city's subways and buses.

They include the following:

¶More than S0 areas in the

The Mayor's Emergency Committee will set up citywide headquarters on a 24-hour hasis in the sub-hasement at 60 Centre Street. The public can obtain information there by calling 999-1234.

Mayor Beame said that other emergency measures were being studied, among them the opening city armories to shelter people who might be stranded because of the strike. He said advisory news bulletins would be issued at frequent intervals to give the public information on mass transit, traffic, schools and other pertinent develop-

Issues

The Transport Workers Union, which is pla lead role in the negotiations, is seeking a "sub but unspecified wage increase, incorporation rates of the 22 cents an hour in cost-of-living i received under the current contract, and further living adjustments to protect workers' purchasin under a new contract. Some current rates are": bour for a railroad porter; $6.73 an bour for a bu tors: $7.24 an hour for a motorman, and $7.47 for a power-cable maintainer. The average annual for a 40-hour week is $13.700, and with overstallowances, $16,541.

The Transif Authority is seeking increas ductivity and changes in work rules to achieve and greater afficiency of operation. Specific 1 include the hiring of part-time employees; eliming the paid lunch period, calculation of pensions to on the final year's earnings, not in excess of 12 of base pay, rather than the total of earnings a time and others.

Malcolm Muggeridge's 'Testament,' and 'Liberty' Essay Offer Substance

By JOHN J. O'CONNOR

For anyone suffering from a hangover of Academy Award trivialities, toolght's schedule contains two rather substantial corries: "A Third Testament," the first of a six-part series with Malcolm Muggeridge, the British jour-nalist, exploring the times and writings of Christian thinkers (St. Augustine, Pas-cal, Blake, Kierkegaard, Tol-stoy and BonHoeffer), and "Liberty," the second 90-minute installment in an NBC News series keyed to the Bicentennial and the themes of "Life, Liberty and themes of "Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness."

Mr. Muggeridge's essays can be seen today on Channel 21 at 9 P.M., or on Channel 31 on Sundays at 4 P.M. They are not being carried on Channel 13, which seems to have decided that a series on religion and comprehended truths is not quite so smart as old Tom Mix or hended truths is not quite so smart as old Tom Mix or Flash Gordon serials. Mr. Muggeridge, oow in his 70's, has gone from a boyhood dreoched in orthodox socialism to profound disillusionment with the "paradise" of the Soviet Uoion to open embracing of the "eternal truths" of traditional Christianity. He is passionate about the subject and he is not shy about wearing his not shy about wearing his fervor on his sleeve. Mr. Muggeridge once wrote, "Somehow I have always had an inner and unaccountable conviction that any religious expression of truth, however-bizarre or uncouth, is more sufficing than any secular one, however elegant and intellectually brilliant. Ani-mistic savages prostrating themselves before a painted stone have always seemed to me to be nearer the truth than any Einstein or Bertrand Russell." In touring the age of Augustine, the former editor of Punch magazine examines the fall of Rome and finds warnings for our time: "The people and the prosperity had vanished, now only to be imagined from the ruins of their magnificence." He speaks of eternal wisdom and mystical experiences, he recalls St. Paul's Epistle and the advice to "spend oo more time on nature and nature's appetites." For the men of this century who believed themselves to be in charge of their own destiny, Mr. Muggeridge, hardly concealing his contempt, merely says, "Look at the consequences."

He is a terribly unfashionable sort, this Malcolm Muggeridge. He is also, in his own determined way, quite fascination and admirable. The series, a co-production of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, lends some badly needed distinction to the television schedule.

"Liberty" was produced and directed for NBC News by Fred Flamenhaft. It is given an interesting framework, which is stated by David Brinkley: The trend today is not for more liberty but less. All over the world every day more people are oppressed and deprived . . . In our 12:00 (2) Young and the Restvear of 1976, we are an en dangered species. There are not many of us left. ever? Within that general context, however, the content meanders through a hodge-podge of minidocumentaries. A long opening segment traces, through animation and assorted art work, the history of the Declaration of Independence purely as a physical document with a worth that wasn't appreciated for decades. The recounting is singularly tedious.

Youngsters demonstrating against the war in Vietnam are mixed with the late Senator Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin and a Red-hunting congressional committee with a young politician camed hlacklisted Hollywood writers are followed by the crusad-ing editor of a small-town newspaper, A conversation with black farmers in a small; Southern town, a portrait of a public demonstrations by American Nazis the images ramble on.

Once again there is a serious underlying point in this broad range of material; With liberty, "the price is high. It means we have to allow the means we have to show the crary and the vicious to abuse these rights, including those who if shay had the chance would destroy all our rights, would destroy everyone's but their own." The point is worth taking, but it is dulled in the sheer clatter of supporting material.

The only book that is a complete companion to the PBS-TV series

Her Own Story

The buffalo doesn't roam very far these days.

We hardly need to remind you that a nickel won't buy what it used to buy.

So honest values are big news today—including values in advertising.

Consider, then, what The Wall Street Journal offers. It's not a nickel and dime story.

The Journal provides you with a daily means of reaching the men who make the multi-million-dollar decisions.

Take, for instance, the top 800 companies in America. They make, market, finance, insure, and move every conceivable product and service. Their importance is underscored by the fact that the industrial companies on this list represented total sales of more than $833,000,000,000 in 1974!

In a study of reading preferences among top and middle management executives in these companies, those making or influencing buying decisions voted as follows:

75%...The Wall Street Journal

56%...Business Week

40% Forbes

39% ... Time

33%...Newsweek

32%...Fortune

27%...Sports Illustrated

25% . . . U.S. News & World Report

So for more reach for every nickel you put into advertising, put your money where it'll reach the leaders, not the herd. Advertise in The Wall Street Journal.

It's a sure way to buffalo your competition.
